Truman Urges Quick Ratification Of Charter

PLEA PRESENTED IN PERSON TO U. S. SENATORS

First President To Appear In Person Since 1932 Makes Strong Plea

SOLONS 'HAVE NO CHOICE'

Little Opposition To Plan For World Peace Seen By Senate Leaders

WASHINGTON, July 2—President Truman in an historic appearance today placed the United Nations charter before the senate and asked for its prompt ratification.

He did so with a warning that the senate could not choose between the charter and something else but "between this charter and no charter at all."

Mr. Truman, the first president to appear before the senate since 1932, told his former colleagues that the people of the world looked to them "to take the lead in approving the charter . . . and pointing the way for the rest of the world."

"The choice before the senate is now clear," he said. "The choice is not between this charter and something else. It is between this charter and no charter at all."

"Improvements will come in the future as the United Nations gain experience with the machinery and methods which they have set up. For this is not a static treaty. It can be improved—and, as the years go by, it will be—just as our own constitution has been improved."

"This charter points down the only road to enduring peace. There is no other. Let us not hesitate to join hands with the peace-loving peoples of the earth and start down that road—with firm resolve that we can and will reach our goal."

Opening his personal campaign for approval of the charter, the President reviewed in simple terms the objectives of the charter, asking the senate to consider not only its words but the spirit which give it meaning.

This is the way he listed the charter's objectives:

"It seeks to prevent future wars."

"It seeks to settle international disputes by peaceful means and in conformity with principles of justice."

"It seeks to promote world-wide progress and better standards of living."

"It seeks to achieve universal respect for, and observance of, human rights and fundamental freedoms for all men and women—without distinction as to race, language or religion."

"It seeks to remove the economic and social causes of international conflict and unrest."

Government Spending On Down Grade

Start Of New Fiscal Year Expected To Find U. S. Expenses Less

WASHINGTON, July 2—The government turned a sharp corner in its World War II road today with the beginning of a new fiscal year.

Behind lay the peaks of war spending and war production.

Ahead lay a still misty path leading through a half-war, half-peace economy to an era of full peace somewhere in the distance. It would be a downhill road from now on as far as huge wartime expenditures were concerned. It would be marked by governmental reorganization, plans for which were already under way.

And there would be new faces at the controls—a new president, at least half of a new cabinet and many other lesser new faces in various government posts.

It was the road on which, in the words of War Mobilizer Fred M. Vinson, the nation would be concentrating first on meeting all requirements of the Pacific war; second, on planning for a durable peace for the world and "unprecedented prosperity" for America.

Vinson disclosed that reconversion plans were being rushed to take into account either an early or a delayed victory over Japan.

But which way would it be? It would cost the people less and less. And it would be conducted by men Americans for the most part still were to become familiar with.

The year ended Saturday midnight saw the highest federal spending and income in history—and the biggest deficit in history.

The treasury, however, began the new year with its biggest cash balance yet—$23,000,000,000—most of it poured in by recent war loans.

The government, which spent $100,000,000,000 last year, planned to lay out only $83,000,000,000 this year for prosecution of the war against Japan and partial reconversion to a civilian economy. Annual budgets were on the down-grade from the astronomical heights they attained during the two-front war.

The national debt was a record-breaking $255,000,000,000.

Further economies were expected to result from reorganizations of the four new cabinet members sworn in Saturday contemplated for their departments. The two biggest reorganizing jobs would take place in the labor and agriculture departments.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson expected to improve food distribution and provide or increase incentive guarantees to farmers to get more production. He took over the duties of the War (Continued on Page Two)

JAP SNIPERS TRY POT SHOTS AT MacARTHUR

WITH ALLIED INVASION FORCES AT BALIKPAPAN, July 1—(delayed)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur drew angry Japanese sniper fire again this afternoon as he surveyed enemy strongpoints from the most advanced Australian command post less than 200 yards from Japanese defense positions.

Striding first through damp swampland and later up shale hills dotted with Australian foxholes, MacArthur reached a spur-like, crescent overlooking Mount Macres, the first important objective of his Australian forces on the right flank.

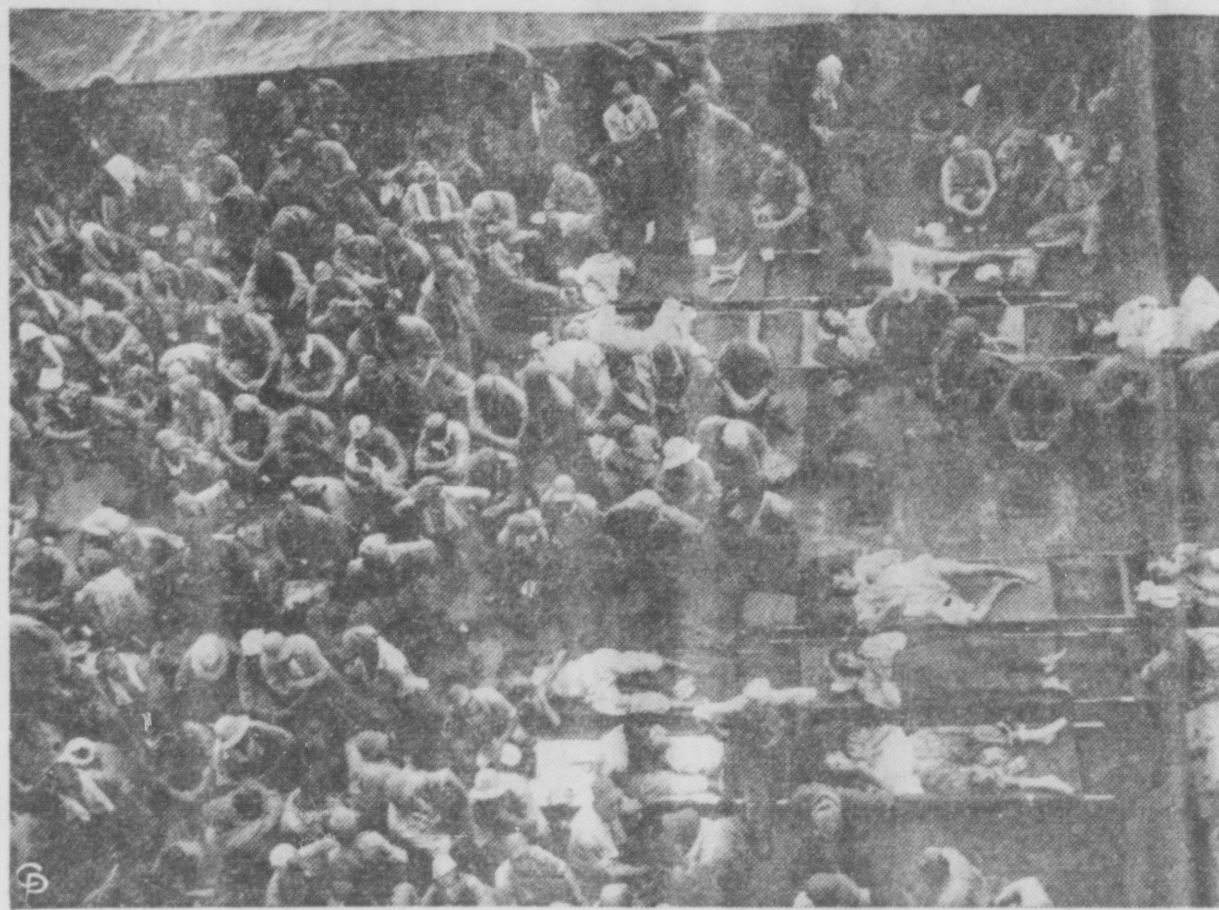

As he stood conferring with an Australian brigadier, eight shots rang out. Staff members automatically ducked but MacArthur and the brigadier continued poring over a large scale grid map, completely unperturbed.

"He's been there for a bit of a time, you know," the brigadier murmured to MacArthur.

"Well, we'll root him out later today," MacArthur said.

With terse questions MacArthur questioned the brigadier and his staff on the development of the campaign, which was only three hours old at the time he went ashore.

FEPC WRANGLE STILL RAGING

Supporters Threaten To Block Recess As Scrap Resumes In House

WASHINGTON, July 2—The congressional wrangle over the fair employment practice committee raged anew in the house today as supporters of the agency threatened to block a Summer recess until funds are provided for its revival.

The FEPC was technically dead as of midnight Saturday when southern Democratic house members objected to adding a last minute senate-approved $250,000 for the agency to the 1946 war agencies appropriations bill.

FEPC proponents pinned their faint hopes on two possible courses of action:

1. That the house rules committee would approve a resolution to send the war agencies bill to a senate-house conference committee to settle the FEPC dispute.

2. That in event of failure of the rules committee to act favorably, the house appropriations committee would redraft the bill to include FEPC funds.

The rules committee, loaded with southern Democrats, has refused consistently to send any kind of FEPC legislation to the floor. The most offered by the appropriations committee was $125,000 to liquidate the agency after previously turning thumbs down on any new fund.

While FEPC funds are only a drop in the bucket of the $771,000,000 bill to operate war agencies for the year beginning today, other agencies tied up in the measure will not suffer from lack of funds.

NEW LIGHTNING PATHFINDER TO TORMENT JAPS

BURBANK, Calif., July 2—A new P-38 Lightning pathfinder which enables Lightning fighter-bombers to overcome fog, darkness and adverse weather and wipe out invisible enemy targets was revealed today by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. with war department permission.

The Pathfinder, a modified P-38 fighter, carries equipment still not made public but said to be more advanced than that of the "droop-snoot" Lightning which led bomber formations over Germany and carried all the standard bombing and navigational equipment of a heavy bomber.

The two-man lead plane carries a pilot and a bombing operator in its specially constructed nose.

War Time Controls On Way Out

WASHINGTON, July 2—Iron-bound controls over manpower and materials, which for almost four years have harnessed America's industrial might to pull the weight of a two-front war, were on the way out today as the government put into effect its program for gradually returning the country to a free enterprise economy.

The "grim race to produce" is over, War Mobilization Chief Fred M. Vinson said in a week-end re-during the Pacific war must be dominated by the "spirit and determination" to furnish the weapons needed to lick Japan.

The War Production Board and the War Manpower Commission, afraid to jump into the reconversion swim with both feet, fixed a watchful eye on their cautious programs for unwinding controls during the second half of 1945.

Local manpower officials henceforth will have the authority to suspend wartime regulations either in communities or individual plants if they decide such action will not interfere with war output.

This means that a WMC official in the field can now decree that a certificate of availability—a device used to discourage job-jumping—is no longer needed by a worker to get a job in any particular area or in a specific factory. These decisions would be subject to approval by the regional director.

Officials estimate that unemployment now runs to about 750,000 and it is expected this figure (Continued on Page Two)

Dade County May Vote To Return To Union July 4

TRENTON, Ga., July 2—Wednesday will be a great day in Dade county, Georgia. It will go down in history.

On July 4 Dade county (population 5,894) will decide whether it is willing to forget the war between the states and return to the union.

The United States flag hasn't flown "legally" in Dade county since that day in 1860 when "Uncle Bob" Tatum arose in the Georgia state legislature and said:

"By the gods, gentlemen, if Georgia does not vote to secede immediately from the union, Dade county will secede from the state and become the independent state of Dade."

The county sent a proclamation to the federal government announcing that it was withdrawing from the union. Since then, no one has seen fit to rescind that proclamation.

During Independence Day ceremonies the citizens will cast an oral vote on the Trenton town square on whether they wish to continue as an "independent state" or become just another of Georgia's 159 counties. If they decide to come back into the union, the stars and bars of the confederacy will be hauled down from the pole where it has been the only official flag for 85 years.

TANGIER FATE TO BE DECIDED

U. S., Britain And France To Meet To Plan Administration

WASHINGTON, July 2—The United States, Britain and France announced today that their representatives will meet immediately in Paris to discuss "future disposition" of the international zone of Tangier, which Franco Spain grabbed five years ago this month.

The three powers, it was learned, will agree to resume international administration of the important North African port area which borders the straits of Gibraltar.

Officials revealed that the United States, which has avoided any part in previous international administration of the area, intends to play "as great a part as any other country" in its future operation.

Spain changed international character on June 14, 1940, when Generalissimo Francisco Franco sent his troops in from adjacent Spanish Morocco on the excuse that Tangier's neutrality had to be preserved.

The state department, timing its announcement with similar disclosures in London and Paris, said "there no longer appears to be any justification" for Spain's continued occupation.

Spain occupied this zone "during the war in which the major interested powers . . . were then engaged."

The department, noting that the European war is now over, said that Spain had already indicated (Continued on Page Two)

Jury Says Water Plant Value $420,000; Next Move Up To City Council

City council will decide Tuesday evening what the next step will be in the purchasing of the Ohio Water service company holdings in Circleville, Joseph W. Adkins, city solicitor, said Monday after a jury composed of 5 women and 7 men deliberated less than four hours and fixed the valuation of the company's holdings here at $420,000.

Judge Earl D. Parker, Pike county, who was assigned to the trial gave the case to the jury at 11 a. m. Saturday morning and charged them to render a decision which in their estimation was a fair valuation of the water company's holdings in the city. This decision was to be arrived at, Judge Parker said, by the evidence presented by the different witnesses heard during the trial.

Shortly afterward the jury was dismissed for luncheon and after resuming, deliberated until about 4 o'clock when Fred Baird, foreman of the jury, told the judge that they were ready to report.

This figure which the jury decided upon is $20,000 less than the price which the city offered to the Water company in June of 1944. At that time the company refused the offer and while not stating definitely their price intimated that the city's offer was $100,000 low. During the depression the water company offered the plant to the city at $375,000.

Solicitor Adkins was assisted in the prosecution of the case for the city by Tom A. Renick, Carl Leist and Frank Dunbar, represented the water company.

This property having been condemned by city council may now be purchased at the price of $420,000 decided upon by the jury.

However it is expected that the Water company will appeal the case before Tuesday evening and the time of the regular meeting of city council.

Members of the jury who brought the four week old trial to a speedy ending Saturday were Mrs. Grace D. Bowman, Roy Williams, L. E. Foreman, Mrs. Effie Glick, Mrs. Cleo E. Himes, Fred Baird, Elmer Schaeffer, Marie Gibson, Lewis Holderman, E. H. Fetheroff, Charles Hosler, Laura M. Rector.

Under present law Byrnes would succeed to the presidency in the event of President Truman's death or disability prior to the next presidential election in 1948.

The state department's high command is as anxious as the public to know what changes the 66-year-old former "assistant president" intends to make in the U. S. diplomatic corps. The resignations of Undersecretary of State Joseph C. Grew and the six assistant secretaries picked by Stettinius are in President Truman's desk drawer.

Persons close to the seven officials revealed that they themselves had no idea yet whether any or all of the resignations would be accepted.

DRAFT BOARDS TO INDUCT MEN OUT ON STRIKE

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—State selective service headquarters indicated today that Summit county draft boards would need at least another day to complete their tally of draft-deferred men on strike at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, whose reclassification and speedy induction was ordered Saturday.

State draft officials said today they had received no formal notification concerning strikers at the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. in Akron, who voted Sunday to call 16,000 workers out.

Numbers declined to estimate the number of Akron workers who might be drafted, explaining that there were numerous factors to be considered, including the residences of the men.

Induction of the Goodyear strikers was ordered by national draft officials after the director of the office of economic stabilization reported that 17,000 members of the United Rubber Workers of America (CIO) ignored orders of the War Labor Board to go back to work.

Gen. MacArthur Watches Troops Drive Toward Borneo Oil Fields

MITCHELLS HIT KYUSHU

Medium Bombers Use Fields On Okinawa; More New Invasions Rumored

By United Press

Roaring flames ate their way through four Japanese cities today after the greatest superfort raid of the war, and on Borneo the Japanese battled to save their richest oil holding.

Nearly 600 superfortresses splattered 500,000 incendiary bombs early this morning on the Kure naval base, the port of Shimonoseki and the coal city of Ube—on Honshu—and the industrial city of Kumamoto on western Kyushu. The Japanese admitted that hours afterwards huge fires still blazed.

Australian troops were reportedly moving inland toward the Sepinggan airfield, six miles northeast of Balikpapan, after their Sunday morning invasion of the Borneo oil center. Tokyo claimed Japanese troops were counter-attacking, but Allied aerial reconnaissance reports said the roads were jammed with fleeing enemy troops.

Kula Landing Reported
A German-language broadcast from Tokyo, heard faintly in London, said that Allied troops also had gone ashore at Kula, 31 miles northeast of Balikpapan. That report was not confirmed by any other source.

The Japanese still reported warily about American warships reconnoitering in the Amami islands, 50 miles north of Okinawa and they obviously feared an invasion there.

From Okinawa, medium bombers made their first attack on the Japanese homeland to bomb the suicide plane base at Chiran, on Kyushu. They were Mitchells, the first to hit Japan since the historic Doolittle raid on Tokyo.

Base Hammered
Fighter planes from Okinawa and Iwo Jima raided the Ibusuki seaplane base and the Hamamatsu airfield near Nagoya. Six Japanese planes were destroyed and seven damaged.

Eighteen enemy ships were sunk or damaged in attacks between Japan and China.

Tokyo claimed successful suicide plane attacks on the American fleet off Okinawa on a destroyer, a transport and another unidentified warship.

Gen. Joseph Stilwell, new 10th army commander, revealed that 16,000 more Japanese had been killed or captured on Okinawa (Continued on Page Two)

STATES RIGHTS ARE DEMANDED BY GOVERNORS

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 2—The governors of 42 states today explored a three-phase challenge to strengthen states' rights and curb controls by the federal government.

Govs. Maurice J. Tobin of Massachusetts, Herbert R. Maw of Utah, and Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland issued separate demands for restoration of state authority in addresses before opening sessions of the 37th annual governors conference.

Maw keynoted formal discussions in the scheduled four-day meeting with a warning that "the American public will sustain this conference in what it does to re-establish our old ancestral philosophy—that 'that government is best which governs least.'"

His view was supported immediately by O'Connor and Tobin. Tobin extended his appeal for states' rights to include broader taxation and revenue sources for the nation's municipalities.

NEAR PERFECT SCORE MADE BY ALLIED TROOPS

CALCUTTA, July 2—Allied troops scored nearly 100 percent when a force of 60 Japanese tried to cross the Sittang river in Burma on rafts, today's southeast Asia command communique reported.

They killed 51 of the 60 enemy troops.

In another action along the Sittang, an attempted Japanese attack on Indian gun positions was turned back, and an unknown number of casualties inflicted on the enemy.

Dade County May Vote To Return To Union July 4

TRENTON, Ga., July 2—Wednesday will be a great day in Dade county, Georgia. It will go down in history.

On July 4 Dade county (population 5,894) will decide whether it is willing to forget the war between the states and return to the union. The United States flag hasn't flown "legally" in Dade county since that day in 1860 when "Uncle Bob" Tatam arose in the Georgia state legislature and said:

"By the gods, gentlemen, if Georgia does not vote to secede immediately from the union, Dade county will secede from the state and become the independent state of Dade."

The county sent a proclamation to the federal government announcing that it was withdrawing from the union. Since then, no one has seen fit to rescind that proclamation.

TANGIER FATE TO BE DECIDED

U. S., Britain And France To Meet To Plan Administration

WASHINGTON, July 2—The United States, Britain and France announced today that their representatives will meet immediately in Paris to discuss "future disposition" of the international zone of Tangier, which Franco Spain grabbed five years ago this month.

The three powers, it was learned, will agree to resume international administration of the important North African port area which borders the straits of Gibraltar.

Officials revealed that the United States, which has avoided any part in previous international administration of the area, intends to play "as great a part as any other country" in its future operation.

Spain changed international character on June 14, 1940, when Generalissimo Francisco Franco sent his troops in from adjacent Spanish Morocco on the excuse that Tangier's neutrality had to be preserved.

The state department, timing its announcement with similar disclosures in London and Paris, said "there no longer appears to be any justification" for Spain's continued occupation.

Spain occupied this zone "during the war in which the other major interested powers... were then engaged."

The department, noting that the European war is now over, said that Spain had already indicated

Jury Says Water Plant Value $420,000; Next Move Up To City Council

City council will decide Tuesday evening what the next step will be in the purchasing of the Ohio Water service company holdings in Circleville, Joseph W. Adkins, city solicitor, said Monday after a jury composed of 5 women and 7 men deliberated less than four hours and fixed the valuation of the company's holdings here at $420,000.

Judge Earl D. Parker, Pike county, who was assigned to the trial gave the case to the jury at 11 a. m. Saturday morning and charged them to render a decision which in their estimation was a fair valuation of the water company's holdings in the city. This decision was to be arrived at, Judge Parker said, by the evidence presented by the different witnesses heard during the trial.

Shortly afterward the jury was dismissed for luncheon and after resuming, deliberated until about 4 o'clock when Fred Baird, foreman of the jury, told the judge that they were ready to report.

This figure which the jury decided upon is $20,000 less than the price which the city offered to the Water company in June of 1944. At that time the company refused the offer and while not stating definitely their price indicated that the city's offer was $100,000 low. During the depression the water company offered the plant to the city at $375,000.

Solicitor Adkins was assisted in the prosecution of the case for the city by Tom A. Renick, Carl Leist and Frank Dunbar, represented the water company.

This property having been condemned by city council may now be purchased at the price of $420,000 decided upon by the jury.

However it is expected that the Water company will appeal the case before Tuesday evening and the time of the regular meeting of city council.

Members of the jury who brought the four week old trial to a speedy ending Saturday were Mrs. Grace D. Bowman, Roy Williams, L. E. Foreman, Mrs. Effie Glick, Mrs. Cleo E. Himes, Fred Baird, Elmer Schaeffer, Marie Gibson, Lewis Holderman, E. H. Fetheroff, Charles Hosler, Laura M. Rector.

Under present law Byrnes would succeed to the presidency in the event of President Truman's death or disability prior to the next presidential election in 1948.

The state department's high command is as anxious as the public to know what changes the 66-year-old former "assistant president" intends to make in the U. S. diplomatic corps. The resignations of Undersecretary of State Joseph C. Grew and the six assistant secretaries picked by Stettinius are in President Truman's desk drawer.

Persons close to the seven officials revealed that they themselves had no idea yet whether any or all of the resignations would be accepted.

DRAFT BOARDS TO INDUCT MEN OUT ON STRIKE

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—State selective service headquarters indicated today that Summit county draft boards would need at least another day to complete their tally of draft-deferred men on strike at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, whose reclassification and speedy induction was ordered Saturday.

State draft officials said today they had received no formal notification concerning strikers at the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. in Akron, who voted Sunday to call 16,000 workers out.

Officials declined to estimate the number of Akron workers who might be drafted, explaining that there were numerous factors to be considered, including the residence of the men.

Induction of the Goodyear strikers was ordered by national draft officials after the director of the office of economic stabilization reported that 17,000 members of the United Rubber Workers of America (CIO) ignored orders of the War Labor Board to go back to work.

Medium Bombers Use Fields On Okinawa; More New Invasions Rumored

By United Press

Roaring flames ate their way through four Japanese cities today after the greatest superfort raid of the war, and on Borneo the Japanese battled to save their richest oil holding.

Nearly 600 superfortresses splattered 500,000 incendiary bombs early this morning on the Kure naval base, the port of Shimonoseki and the coal city of Ube—on Honshu—and the industrial city of Kumamoto on western Kyushu. The Japanese admitted that hours afterwards huge fires still blazed.

Australian troops were reported moving inland toward the Seppang airfield, six miles northeast of Balikpapan, after their Sunday morning invasion of the Borneo oil center. Tokyo claimed Japanese troops were counter-attacking, but Allied aerial reconnaissance reports said the roads were jammed with fleeing enemy troops.

Kula Landing Reported

A German-language broadcast from Tokyo, heard faintly in London, said that Allied troops also had gone ashore at Kula, 31 miles northeast of Balikpapan. That report was not confirmed by any other source.

The Japanese still reported warily about American warships reconnoitering in the Amami islands, 50 miles north of Okinawa and they obviously feared an invasion there.

From Okinawa, medium bombers made their first attack on the Japanese homeland to bomb the suicide plane base at Chiran, on Kyushu. They were Mitchells, the first to hit Japan since the historic Doolittle raid on Tokyo.

Base Hammered

Fighter planes from Okinawa and Iwo Jima raided the Ibusuki seaplane base and the Hamamatsu airfield near Nagoya. Six Japanese planes were destroyed and seven damaged.

Eighteen enemy ships were sunk or damaged in attacks between Japan and China.

Tokyo claimed successful suicide plane attacks on the American fleet off Okinawa on a destroyer, a transport and another unidentified warship.

Gen. Joseph Stilwell, new 10th army commander, revealed that 16,000 more Japanese had been killed or captured on Okinawa

STATES RIGHTS ARE DEMANDED BY GOVERNORS

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 2—The governors of 42 states today explored a three-phase challenge to strengthen states' rights and curb controls by the federal government.

Govs. Maurice J. Tobin of Massachusetts, Herbert B. Maw of Utah, and Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland issued separate demands for restoration of state authority in addresses before opening sessions of the 37th annual governors conference.

Maw keynoted formal discussions in the scheduled four-day meeting with a warning that "the American public will sustain this conference in what it does to re-establish our old ancestral philosophy—that 'that government is best which governs least.'"

His view was supported immediately by O'Connor and Tobin. Tobin extended his appeal for states' rights to include broader taxation and revenue sources for the nation's municipalities.

PLEA PRESENTED IN PERSON TO U. S. SENATORS

First President To Appear In Person Since 1932 Makes Strong Plea

(Continued from Page One) Influences, the President said it evolved from "the reality of experience in a world where one generation has failed twice to keep the peace."

The President reminded the senate that no international document had ever been drawn in a greater glare of publicity. He said this resulted in the impression in some quarters that there were many points of disagreement among the united nations in drafting the document.

"The fact is that there were comparatively few points upon which there was not accord from the very beginning," he said, adding that these disagreements related more to method than to principle.

"Whatever differences there were were finally settled," he said. "They were settled by the traditional Democratic method of free exchange of opinions and points of view."

The President took this occasion to remind both the senate and the house that they were on record favoring the basic principles of the charter. He referred to the Connally resolution passed a year and a half ago in the senate and the Fulbright resolution passed by the house.

When Mr. Truman stood before the senate today there were many who recalled that another President once had stood there to plead a somewhat similar cause. It was 26 years ago, lacking eight days, that Woodrow Wilson began his ill-fated league of nations fight.

The last previous appearance of a President before the senate was on May 31, 1932, when Herbert C. Hoover addressed the chamber on domestic economic problems occasioned by the depression.

Most of the nation's leaders and organs of opinion, including the vast bulk of senators, are either openly for the new world league or are not offering any notable opposition.

Last night Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, titular head of the Republican party, expressed the hope that the senate would ratify the charter "as speedily as possible" and without reservation.

The charter, framed by representatives of 50 nations in San Francisco provides for the establishment of a world alliance designed to solve international problems but prepared to prevent aggression by force.

Senate ratification will make the U. S. a full-fledged member of the new league, which will formally come into being when this country, Britain, Russia, China, France and 23 other United Nations approve the document.

So sure are senate leaders that far more than the necessary two-thirds votes will be forthcoming on that basis they doubt there will be more than 10 votes against the treaty. They won't even guess where that much opposition will come from.

On the eve of Mr. Truman's appearance Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky estimated that senate action will come by Aug. 15.

Today's historic ceremony was scheduled to be brief and simple. Mr. Truman asked for no fanfare. There will be no broadcast or photographs of the proceedings. Not even members of the cabinet and supreme court were formally invited as is customary for a presidential appearance in congress.

Mr. Truman planned only a 600 word message. He was expected to stress that the world is looking to the United States for leadership in peace as well as in war and therefore to urge prompt senate action.

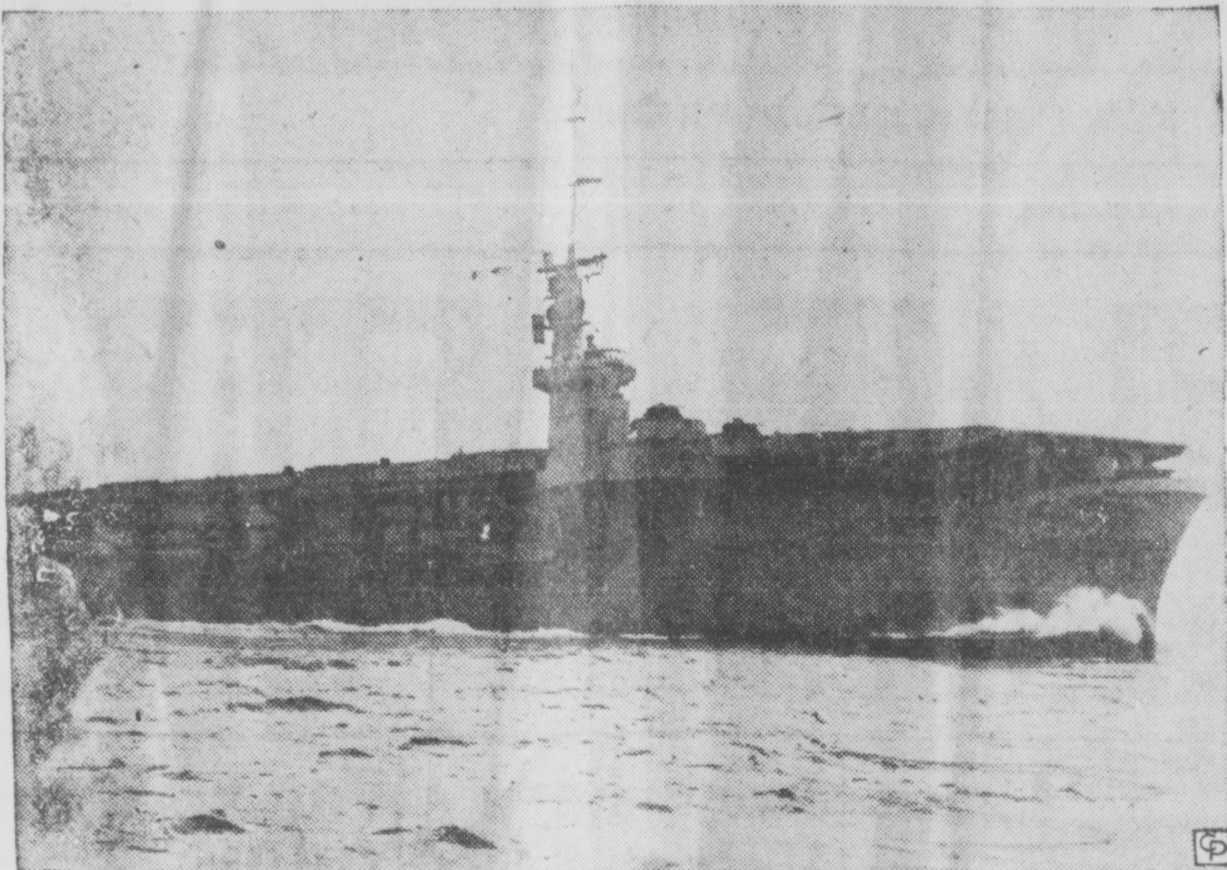

The scene was comparable in one respect to a similar occasion 26 years ago a week from tomorrow. On that date, July 10, 1919, the late President Woodrow Wilson personally submitted to the senate the Versailles treaty with its provisions for a League of Nations to prevent another war.

With physical appearance the similarity ends. Mr. Wilson faced a hostile senate. Behind its applause lay a grim fear of foreign alliances which might entangle the United States in recurring European wars. As a result there were delays, reservations and ultimate rejection of the treaty.

Mr. Truman faced a chamber in which he recently completed 10 years service during which he made personal friends of most of its members.

The Versailles treaty encountered vigorous and successful opposition from the late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, R. Mass., who was the leading senate Republican on foreign relations at that time. The United Nations charter has the active and enthusiastic support of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R. Mich., chairman of senate Republicans and their leader in foreign relations. As a delegate to the United Nations meeting at

Spain will be excluded from the Paris meeting but, because of her close proximity to the territory, probably will be given a voice in its postwar international administration, officials said.

The United States' decision to participate in Tangier's administration was attributed to this nation's "new role in international security cooperation" as well as a desire to protect U. S. business interests in North Africa.

To Britain Tangier is an important part of the pattern under which Britain has controlled Gibraltar and the Mediterranean. France, with a protectorate over most of Morocco, has an equally strong interest in the international zone.

American representatives at the Paris meeting will be Henry S. Villard, chief of the state department's African division, J. Rives Childs, until recently U. S. charge d'affaires at Tangier, and Ernest J. Dempster of the American legation at Tangier.

Deaths and Funerals

ELLEN HALL PAYNE

Mrs. Ellen Hall Payne, 73, Walnut township died at Berger hospital, Sunday 4 p. m. after a month's illness. She was the daughter of Peter and Lavina Solt Hall, and was a member of the Hedges Methodist Chapel.

Surviving Mrs. Hall are her husband, Ervin Payne, at home, one sister, Mrs. Orrin LaRue, Ashville and one brother, William Hall, Ashville.

Private funeral will be Wednesday 2:30 p. m. at the Payne home. Friends may call at the home after 2:30, Tuesday.

Burial will be conducted at the Reber Hill cemetery by Crites and Van Cleve funeral home. The Rev. Dwight Woodworth and the Rev. Boyd Rife will officiate.

COMMITTEE WILL PROBE MOVIE CAPITAL GROUPS

WASHINGTON, July 2—The house un-American activities committee lead plans today for its investigation of Hollywood and the movie city's allegedly gigantic, super-colossal, sensational plot to overthrow the government.

The committee decided Saturday to look in on the Pacific coast and Hollywood in particular. To Acting Chairman John E. Rankin, D. Miss., it was the investigation he'd been waiting for.

"The information we get," he said "is that this is the greatest hotbed of subversive activities in the United States. According to reports, one of the most dangerous plots ever instigated for the overthrow of this government had its headquarters in Hollywood."

San Francisco he helped draft the charter. Vandenberg has the same fear of foreign quarrels involving the United States. But he told the senate last week he would choose cooperation to halt such disturbances in their infancy as the alternative to an isolation that no longer is possible in a modern world.

Whereas eight months and 10 days elapsed from the time Mr. Wilson submitted the Versailles treaty until it was finally rejected March 19, 1920, the senate has agreed upon a speed up schedule for the new charter. Foreign relations committee hearings are scheduled to begin a week from today. No senator expects them to run longer than two weeks. Senate debate should run no longer.

Congress also gave Anderson veto power over Office of Price Administration food orders.

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach said that his objective was to reorganize his department and consolidate the government labor agencies in such a way as to minimize labor controversies and disputes in the next three or four years.

Schwellenbach with Mr. Truman's approval brought along six assistants to complete a study by August 1 on how the department should be strengthened. He said he would carry out the program by September 1 as far as he could without additional legislation.

Smaller reorganizing tasks faced Attorney General Tom C. Clark and Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan.

Mr. Truman was to send to the senate today the name of former war mobilizer James F. Byrnes to be secretary of state to succeed Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. He would be the fifth cabinet change since Mr. Truman assumed office slightly less than three months ago.

In speculation about further changes, the names of those most frequently mentioned to leave the cabinet were Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal and Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, the two remaining, were regarded as virtually certain to stay on.

AMERICAN SUBS SINK 10 MORE JAP VESSELS

WASHINGTON, July 2—American submarines have sunk 10 more Japanese vessels and a British submarine has sunk a 10,000-ton enemy cruiser, the Navy announced today.

The British undersea craft was operating under U. S. control in the southwest Pacific when it sank the enemy warship of the Haguro class. Jane's fighting ships said the vessel had a normal complement of 692 men, carried 10 eight-inch guns and four planes with two catapults.

American submarines sent to the bottom one converted gunboat, one patrol escort vessel, six merchant vessels and two tankers.

To date in this war U. S. undersea craft have destroyed 1,163 Japanese ships, including 140 warships and 1,023 merchant vessels.

U. S. SYNTHETIC RUBBER OUTPUT 1,200,000 TONS

WASHINGTON, July 2— This country is planning to produce 1,200,000 tons of synthetic rubber in 1946, more than the amount of natural rubber consumed by the entire world in any one year before the war, the Rubber Reserve company announced today.

The goal for this year is about 1,000,000 tons, some 250,000 tons more than the United States produced in 1944 when the output was greater than the largest amount of natural rubber used in this country in any peacetime year, the agency said.

The RRC, which supervises the operation of the 51 government-owned synthetic rubber factories, said the cost of producing synthetic rubber in United States is showing a uniform downward trend.

FEPC WRANGLE STILL RAGING

(Continued from Page One) inserted a provision in the $3,600,000,000 second deficiency bill—approved shortly before the midnight deadline—that when an appropriation had been agreed to by both houses an agency could continue spending funds pending final approval.

In this bill FEPC is the only agency not approved by both houses. Meanwhile in late Saturday session both houses rushed to completion all other "must" legislation, leaving no other important bills pending on the docket of either house.

The senate today tied up to hear President Truman, in a scheduled personal appearance, urge approval of the world security conference charter. Then it prepared to sit back and wait for the house to untangle the FEPC knot.

Although it was possible for the legislative battle over FEPC to roar on for weeks, administration leaders said they hoped to be able to settle it this week to give members a well earned rest.

Proponents of the agency insisted, however, that they would carry on the fight as long as necessary to get funds approved.

"I don't believe in Summer recesses anyway," one supporter declared. He said FEPC friends would make every effort to block a recess until congress revived the agency.

Southern Democrats were equally determined to fight on until—as one member said—"we are not only sure that FEPC is dead, but will stay dead."

No matter what happens to FEPC, congress will have somewhat belatedly wound up one financial year and provided approximately $59,500,000,000 for a new one. This is $7,500,000,000 less than the funds appropriated to run the government during the fiscal year just ended.

GIRL BOUND TO GRAND JURY ON BIGAMY CHARGE

A 19 year old girl was bound over to the grand jury Monday on a charge of bigamy when she was arraigned before B. T. Hedges, justice of the peace. She was placed in the county jail when she was unable to furnish bond which was set at $500.

Arrested Saturday in Ironton she was brought to this city by the sheriff's department after an affidavit for her arrest had been filed by William A. Hill, York street, to whom she was married June 22.

Upon appearing in probate court for a license she stated that she had been previously married and had been divorced in Ironton. She said that her name was Hazel Han-shaw and that her parents were dead.

Hill produced a letter which had been received by the girl from her former husband Charles Stapleton with the Naval Air station in Pasco, Washington dated May 23 and addressed to "Dearest Wife". Investigation revealed that no divorce had been granted and that her mother was living in Ironton to whom she had gone last week. It was at her mother's home that she was arrested by the sheriff in Ironton.

When she was arrested she told members of the sheriff's department that she knew that she had done wrong but that she had been threatened by Hill that unless she married him he would kill her. She said she told him that she was married and that she had no divorce and that he made her lie about the state of affairs and said that if she kept still no one would know.

(Continued from Page One) since organized resistance there ended June 21. Stilwell, in his first statement since he succeeded the late Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., said the Okinawa campaign showed "the Jap does not have a chance against the Americans."

Gen. Brooks Named Attention again was focused on American bases in the north for attacks on Japan with the appointment of Maj. Gen. John B. Brooks as commander of the 11th airforce operating in Alaska and the Aleutians. The Japanese recently said that American troops were poised in the Aleutians for invasion moves.

The four cities attacked by the superforts today felt the fury of the great bombers for the first time. Kure, the great naval base on the inland sea, was hit last March by carrier-based planes. An estimated 1,000 tons of fire bombs were dropped on each of the four targets.

The planes bombed by instrument through a high overcast, except at Ube, where they could see the target. Flames licked the night sky thousands of feet high as the bombers wheeled for home. Night fighter and anti-aircraft opposition was weak.

Opposition Slight Little opposition was reported in the opening stages of the Balikpapan area, the biggest amphibious effort in the southwest Pacific since Luzon. Gen. Douglas MacArthur watched with satisfaction from a cruiser while the Australians went ashore after a terrific naval and aerial bombardment and later went on the beach himself for an inspection tour.

Balikpapan was aflame from the constant attacks of the past three weeks. Heavy black smoke hung low over the battle area. Some specialized American units took part in the invasion. So did Dutch troops, returning to the Dutch-owned part of Borneo for the first time since it was lost in January, 1942.

U. S. navy seabees already were at work putting together causeways so cargo vessels could nose close inshore with supplies for the invasion.

War Time Controls On Way Out

(Continued from Page One) will double by the end of the year. Service industries that have been starved for workers—laundries, restaurants, bus lines, railroads, retail stores—will probably absorb many of these workers. Officials predict that the next few months will see a gradual disappearance of "experience unnecessary" in shop window signs asking for help.

To allow industry to absorb some of the unemployed, WPB is relaxing its rigid controls over most raw materials to enable non-war producers to get started on peacetime work. WPB chairman J. A. Krug ordered the gradual scrapping of priorities over a six-month period for "virtually everything except military requirements."

Under this system, manufacturers can obtain available materials on a first-come-first-served basis after the military has taken what it needs.

As part of this program the controlled materials plan, under which metals are rationed to authorized users, will be relaxed starting today. By the end of the year it will be scrapped entirely. At that time, only a single priority—called "MM"—will remain to give a right of way to war production. Textiles and lumber, two materials which will continue to be scarce, will come under a special allocation system.

"The fact is that there were comparatively few points upon which there was not accord from the very beginning," he said, adding that these disagreements related more to method than to principle.

"Whatever differences there were were finally settled," he said. "They were settled by the traditional Democratic method of free exchange of opinions and points of view."

The President took this occasion to remind both the senate and the house that they were on record favoring the basic principles of the charter. He referred to the Connally resolution passed a year and a half ago in the senate and the Fulbright resolution passed by the house.

When Mr. Truman stood before the senate today there were many who recalled that another President once had stood there to plead a somewhat similar cause. It was 26 years ago, lacking eight days, that Woodrow Wilson began his ill-fated league of nations fight.

The last previous appearance of a President before the senate was on May 31, 1932, when Herbert C. Hoover addressed the chamber on domestic economic problems occasioned by the depression.

Most of the nation's leaders and organs of opinion, including the vast bulk of senators, are either openly for the new world league or are not offering any notable opposition.

Last night Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, titular head of the Republican party, expressed the hope that the senate would ratify the charter "as speedily as possible" and without reservation.

The charter, framed by representatives of 50 nations in San Francisco provides for the establishment of a world alliance designed to solve international problems but prepared to prevent aggression by force.

Senate ratification will make the U. S. a full-fledged member of the new league, which will formally come into being when this country, Britain, Russia, China, France and 23 other United Nations approve the document.

So sure are senate leaders that far more than the necessary two-thirds votes will be forthcoming that instead of counting strength on that basis they doubt there will be more than 10 votes against the treaty. They won't even guess where that much opposition will come from.

On the eve of Mr. Truman's appearance Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky estimated that senate action will come by Aug. 15.

Today's historic ceremony was scheduled to be brief and simple. Mr. Truman asked for no fanfare. There will be no broadcast or photographs of the proceedings. Not even members of the cabinet and supreme court were formally invited as is customary for a presidential appearance in congress.

Mr. Truman planned only a 600 word message. He was expected to stress that the world is looking to the United States for leadership in peace as well as in war and therefore to urge prompt senate action.

The scene was comparable in one respect to a similar occasion 26 years ago a week from tomorrow. On that date, July 10, 1919, the late President Woodrow Wilson personally submitted to the senate the Versailles treaty with its provisions for a League of Nations to prevent another war.

With physical appearance the similarity ends.

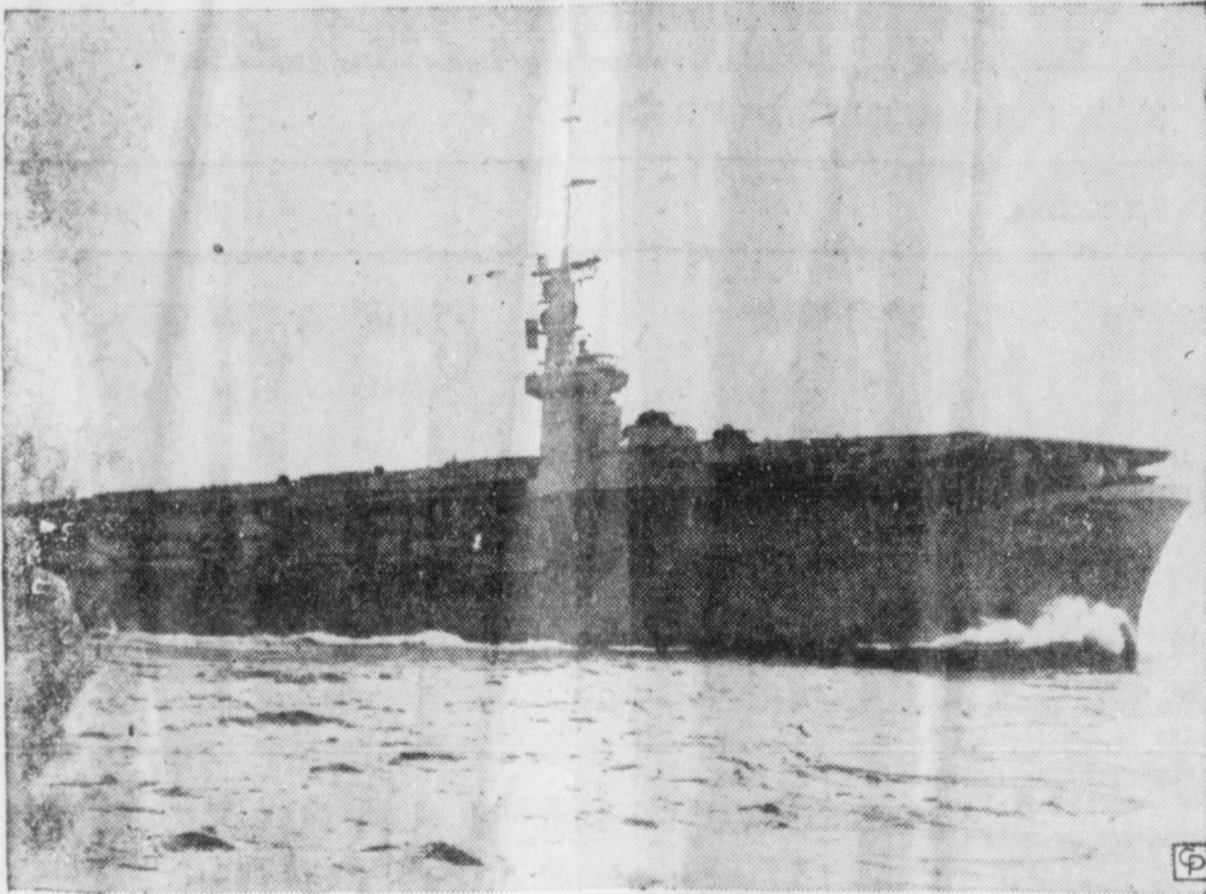

Mr. Wilson faced a hostile senate. Behind its applause lay a grim fear of foreign alliances which might entangle the United States in recurring European wars. As a result there were delays, reservations and ultimate rejection of the treaty.

Mr. Truman faced a chamber in which he recently completed 10 years service during which he made personal friends of most of its members.

The Versailles treaty encountered vigorous and successful opposition from the late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, R. Mass., who was the leading senate Republican on foreign relations at that time.

The United Nations charter has the active and enthusiastic support of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R. Mich., chairman of senate Republicans and their leader in foreign relations. As a delegate to the United Nations meeting at its desire to "regularize the situation."

Spain will be excluded from the Paris meeting but, because of her close proximity to the territory, probably will be given a voice in its postwar international administration, officials said.

The United States' decision to participate in Tangier's administration was attributed to this nation's "new role in international security cooperation" as well as a desire to protect U. S. business interests in North Africa.

To Britain Tangier is an important part of the pattern under which Britain has controlled Gibraltar and the Mediterranean.

France, with a protectorate over most of Morocco, has an equally strong interest in the international zone.

American representatives at the Paris meeting will be Henry S. Villard, chief of the state department's African division, J. Rives Childs, until recently U. S. charge d'affaires at Tangier, and Ernest J. Dempster of the American legation at Tangier.

Deaths and Funerals

ELLEN HALL PAYNE

Mrs. Ellen Hall Payne, 73, Walnut township died at Berger hospital, Sunday 4 p. m. after a month's illness. She was the daughter of Peter and Lavina Solt Hall, and was a member of the Hedges Methodist Chapel.

Surviving Mrs. Hall are her husband, Ervin Payne, at home, one sister, Mrs. Orrin LaRue, Ashville, and one brother, William Hall, Ashville.

Private funeral will be Wednesday 2:30 p. m. at the Payne home. Friends may call at the home after 2:30, Tuesday.

Burial will be conducted at the Reber Hill cemetery by Crites and Van Cleave funeral home. The Rev. Dwight Woodworth and the Rev. Boyd Rife will officiate.

COMMITTEE WILL PROBE MOVIE CAPITAL GROUPS

WASHINGTON, July 2—The house un-American activities committee lead plans today for its investigation of Hollywood and the movie city's allegedly gigantic, super-colossal, sensational plot to overthrow the government.

The committee decided Saturday to look in on the Pacific coast and Hollywood in particular. To Acting Chairman John E. Rankin, D. Miss., was the investigation he'd been waiting for.

"The information we get," he said "is that this is the greatest hotbed of subversive activities in the United States. According to reports, one of the most dangerous plots ever instigated for the overthrow of this government had its headquarters in Hollywood."

San Francisco he helped draft the charter.

Vandenberg has the same fear of foreign quarrels involving the United States. But he told the senate last week he would choose cooperation to halt such disturbances in their infancy as the alternative to an isolation that no longer is possible in a modern world.

Whereas eight months and 10 days elapsed from the time Mr. Wilson submitted the Versailles treaty until it was finally rejected March 19, 1920, the senate has agreed upon a speed up schedule for the new charter.

Foreign relations committee hearings are scheduled to begin a week from today. No senator expects them to run longer than two weeks. Senate debate should run no longer.

Government Spending On Down Grade

Food Administration as well as head of the agriculture department under executive order from President Truman.

Congress also gave Anderson veto power over Office of Price Administration food orders.

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach said that his objective was to reorganize his department and consolidate the government labor agencies in such a way as to minimize labor controversies and disputes in the next three or four years.

Schwellenbach with Mr. Truman's approval brought along six assistants to complete a study by August 1 on how the department should be strengthened. He said he would carry out the program by September 1 as far as he could without additional legislation.

Smaller reorganizing tasks faced Attorney General Tom C. Clark and Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan.

Mr. Truman was to send to the senate today the name of former war mobilizer James F. Byrnes to be secretary of state to succeed Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. He would be the fifth cabinet change since Mr. Truman assumed office slightly less than three months ago.

In speculation about further changes, the names of those most frequently mentioned to leave the cabinet were Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal and Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, the two remaining, were regarded as virtually certain to stay on.

AMERICAN SUBS SINK 10 MORE JAP VESSELS

WASHINGTON, July 2—American submarines have sunk 10 more Japanese vessels and a British submarine has sunk a 10,000-ton enemy cruiser, the Navy announced today.

The British undersea craft was operating under U. S. control in the southwest Pacific when it sank the enemy warship of the Haguro class. Jane's fighting ships said the vessel had a normal complement of 692 men, carried 10 eight-inch guns and four planes with two catapults.

American submarines sent to the bottom one converted gunboat, one patrol escort vessel, six merchant vessels and two tankers.

To date in this war U. S. undersea craft have destroyed 1,163 Japanese ships, including 140 warships and 1,023 merchant vessels.

U. S. SYNTHETIC RUBBER OUTPUT 1,200,000 TONS

WASHINGTON, July 2— This country is planning to produce 1,200,000 tons of synthetic rubber in 1946, more than the amount of natural rubber consumed by the entire world in any one year before the war, the Rubber Reserve company announced today.

The goal for this year is about 1,000,000 tons, some 250,000 tons more than the United States produced in 1944 when the output was greater than the largest amount of natural rubber used in this country in any peacetime year, the agency said.

The RRC, which supervises the operation of the 51 government-owned synthetic rubber factories, said the cost of producing synthetic rubber in United States is showing a uniform downward trend.

FEPC WRANGLE STILL RAGING

inserted a provision in the $3,600,000 second deficiency bill—approved shortly before the midnight deadline—that when an appropriation had been agreed to by both houses an agency could continue spending funds pending final approval.

In this bill FEPC is the only agency not approved by both houses.

Meanwhile in late Saturday session both houses rushed to completion all other "must" legislation, leaving no other important bills pending on the docket of either house.

The senate today tied up to hear President Truman, in a scheduled personal appearance, urge approval of the world security conference charter. Then it prepared to sit back and wait for the house to untangle the FEPC knot.

Although it was possible for the legislative battle over FEPC to roar on for weeks, administration leaders said they hoped to be able to settle it this week to give members a well earned rest.

Proponents of the agency insisted, however, that they would carry on the fight as long as necessary to get funds approved.

"I don't believe in Summer recesses anyway," one supporter declared. He said FEPC friends would make every effort to block a recess until congress revived the agency.

Southern Democrats were equally determined to fight on until—as one member said—"we are not only sure that FEPC is dead, but will stay dead."

No matter what happens to FEPC, congress will have somewhat belatedly wound up one financial year and provided approximately $9,500,000,000 for a new one. This is $7,500,000,000 less than the funds appropriated to run the government during the fiscal year just ended.

GIRL BOUND TO GRAND JURY ON BIGAMY CHARGE

A 19 year old girl was bound over to the grand jury Monday on a charge of bigamy when she was arraigned before B. T. Hedges, justice of the peace. She was placed in the county jail when she was unable to furnish bond which was set at $500.

Arrested Saturday in Ironton she was brought to this city by the sheriff's department after an affidavit for her arrest had been filed by William A. Hill, York street, to whom she was married June 22.

Upon appearing in probate court for a license she stated that she had been previously married and had been divorced in Ironton. She said that her name was Hazel Handshaw and that her parents were dead.

Hill produced a letter which had been received by the girl from her former husband Charles Stapleton with the Naval Air station in Pasco, Washington dated May 23 and addressed to "Dearest Wife". Investigation revealed that no divorce had been granted and that her mother was living in Ironton to whom she had gone last week. It was at her mother's home that she was arrested by the sheriff in Ironton.

When she was arrested she told members of the sheriff's department that she knew that she had done wrong but that she had been threatened by Hill that unless she married him he would kill her. She said she told him that she was married and that she had no divorce and that he made her lie about the state of affairs and said that if she kept still no one would know.

since organized resistance there ended June 21. Stilwell, in his first statement since he succeeded the late Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr. said the Okinawa campaign showed "the Jap does not have a chance against the Americans."

Gen. Brooks Named

Attention again was focused on American bases in the north for attacks on Japan with the appointment of Maj. Gen. John B. Brooks as commander of the 11th airforce operating in Alaska and the Aleutians. The Japanese recently said that American troops were poised in the Aleutians for invasion moves.

The four cities attacked by the superforts today felt the fury of the great bombers for the first time. Kure, the great naval base on the inland sea, was hit last March by carrier-based planes. An estimated 1,000 tons of fire bombs were dropped on each of the four targets.

The planes bombed by instrument through a high overcast, except at Ube, where they could see the target. Flames licked the night sky thousands of feet high as the bombers wheeled for home. Night fighter and anti-aircraft opposition was weak.

Opposition Slight

Little opposition was reported in the opening stages of the Balikpapan area, the biggest amphibious effort in the southwest Pacific since Luzon. Gen. Douglas MacArthur watched with satisfaction from a cruiser while the Australians went ashore after a terrific naval and aerial bombardment and later went on the beach himself for an inspection tour.

Balikpapan was aflame from the constant attacks of the past three weeks. Heavy black smoke hung low over the battle area. Some specialized American units took part in the invasion. So did Dutch Troops, returning to the Dutch-owned part of Borneo for the first time since it was lost in January, 1942.

U. S. navy seabees already were at work putting together causeways so cargo vessels could nose close inshore with supplies for the invasion.

will double by the end of the year. Service industries that have been starved for workers—laundries, restaurants, bus lines, railroads, retail stores—will probably absorb many of these workers. Officials predict that the next few months will see a gradual disappearance of "experience unnecessary" in shop window signs asking for help.

To allow industry to absorb some of the unemployed, WPB is relaxing its rigid controls over most raw materials to enable non-war producers to get started on peacetime work. WPB chairman J. A. Krug ordered the gradual scrapping of priorities over a six-month period for "virtually everything except military requirements."

Under this system, manufacturers can obtain available materials on a first-come-first-served basis after the military has taken what it needs.

As part of this program the controlled materials plan, under which metals are rationed to authorized users, will be relaxed starting today. By the end of the year it will be scrapped entirely.

At that time, only a single priority—called "MM"—will remain to give a right of way to war production. Textiles and lumber, two materials which will continue to be scarce, will come under a special allocation system.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Staff Sergeant Edward Reichelderfer has been honored for the part he has been playing in the conquest of Okinawa.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reichelderfer, Stoutsville, who has been overseas 10 months, has received the following citation:

"The commanding general, first Marine division, Fleet Marine force, takes pleasure in commending you for your outstanding performance of duty in action against enemy Japanese forces on Okinawa Shima, Nansai Shoto, during the period April 1 to April 24, 1945, as set forth in the following:

"Staff Sergeant Edward Reichelderfer, United States Army, a member of the First Provisional Military Police Battalion, attached to the First Marine division, displayed untiring effort and ability in leading his squad in patrols over large areas, assisting in gathering and interning civilians and prisoners of war at organized collection points. Your energy and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Military Service."

Two Pickaway county brothers recently had a reunion in Germany, according to a letter received by their sister, Mrs. Floyd Arledge, 456 East Ohio street.

Pfc. Clyde Huffer Jr. and Cpl. Merle M. Huffer met near Munich, Germany. It was the first time they had seen each other since April, 1944. Both are in the U. S. Army of occupation.

Clyde went overseas in June, 1944 and Merle in October, 1944. They are the sons of Clyde Huffer, Stoutsville.

Floyd Arledge, 456 East Ohio street, has received a medical discharge from the Army after service in Europe. Arledge was discharged from the convalescent hospital, Camp Edwards, Mass. He went in service in March, 1944, went overseas in August. He was wounded September 11. He arrived in the United States February 2, 1945, and was treated at the hospital until he was discharged.

BETTER DEMOCRACY

It's a startling fact that prominent Americans sometimes engage in belittling the public officials who are the deliberate choice of the electorate.

Recently Dr. Alvin Johnson, retiring head of the New School of Social Research in New York City, and presumably a man of high social purpose, told an interviewer: "Nobody elects to appear stupid unless he means to run for public office." The implication is that running for office is a stupid business, in which no man can afford to appear intelligent.

Dr. Johnson undoubtedly did not mean the full inference that might be drawn from his remark. One elected representative usually will rank well with the electorate which puts them in office. But if they don't, no one is to be blamed but the voter. If citizens fail to vote, or to take pains with their voting, they can expect poor results.

The reform of free government lies in better democracy, not in substitutes. We have recently learned that lesson over again the hard way from a new crop of dictators. It should bear fruit, not in belittling the officials elected, but in a sacred dedication to the choice of leaders whom all can respect.

OTHERS ALSO TO BLAME

BIG industry has been getting some blame which at the very least it should share with others.

In France, says Antonin Basch, formerly a Czech banker and industrialist, now on the Columbia University faculty, the Socialists no less than the conservatives backed the Munich policy of appeasing Hitler. Also, he adds, "In countries like Greece or Yugoslavia, where the country was run entirely by politicians and the influence of business was slight, business leaders are now blamed for conspiring with the fascists."

It is a good idea to take Al Smith's oft-repeated advice and "look at the record."

TRAVEL TROUBLE

AS if train travel weren't difficult enough already, a small town newspaper in Ontario reports wild life interference. Deer frisking around the tracks have made more than one engineer slow his pace and fall behind schedule, and on another line romping mice frequently upset the composure of the passengers.

Well, such carefree creatures probably can't be expected to know there's a war on.

War is mostly an expensive business, but Marine Corporal Edward P. Walton is reported as killing Japs at the moderate rate of 16.8 cents per head.

The latest is that Hitler has escaped disguised as a woman. That should narrow the search, for Adolf is no pin-up type.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 2—Two senators were talking over the San Francisco peace formula.

One wondered what steps the administration would take to sell it to the people, observing that if Mr. Roosevelt were alive there would no doubt be a great pressure propaganda drive organized to herald the document as the greatest advancement of man since the ten commandments—and perhaps even greater.

The second senator correctly concluded that Messrs. Truman and Stettinius are modestly putting forward their program, laying no great claims for it, and allowing it to speak for itself.

Indeed, the inner congressional sentiment seems generally to run to the theory that while this formula certainly does not guarantee either peace or security, no alternative improvement is possible now. Thus, the majority opinion concludes the document might as well be ratified to see what Mr. Stettinius and the other world organization leaders can work out of it.

The San Francisco conference did not materially alter the Dumbarton Oaks scheme. Its main work was the building up of the economic and social council and adoption of the trusteeship system. Basically the peace-keeping project was left without change, to wit:

The security council, backed by the chiefs of staff of the five big United Nations, will not have an international police force. To stop an aggressor, it will order nations to take military measures.

The council itself may take economic steps to isolate an offender, but the big five nations specifically retain the right to veto any action and an objection by any one of them can break down the whole peace formula.

This veto right was retained at San Francisco over the protest of small nations, because the big three (Russia, Britain and the United States) have the only formidable sea, air and land forces and they did not want the other eight smaller nations on the council ordering their armies around.

This formula, then, is purely tentative, and how much it will amount to remains for future events to determine. Surely it should stop little wars, but it does not even pretend anything more than hope for avoiding big ones.

Indeed, it recognizes realistically the facts of international life and is far away from the fancy projects advanced earlier in the war by some officials of this government to promote "one world," a quart-of-milk-a-day, etc.

The idealism of the document is centered largely in the economic and social council, but even there, restraint is noticeable. The charter gives this council the obligation of promoting "human rights and fundamental freedoms for, and without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion."

It does not mention freedom of press, which certainly is a fundamental freedom. Of what good is freedom of language without freedom to use it? It seems a full pledge for our constitutional liberties was avoided, possibly for fear of embarrassing contrasts with the Russian system of political use of its press under dictatorship.

The Navy seems to have caused Mr. Stettinius to moderate his trusteeship notions to some vague extent not clear in the text. It appears a special category for bases in "strategic areas" has been created, but

Ways of Treating Asthmatic Seizures

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ASTHMA is one of those chronic or long-continued disorders for which no cure has as yet been found. It is a most troublesome disease and may even be directly responsible for fatalities.

The outstanding symptom of this disease is shortness of breath, scientifically called dyspnea. During an attack of asthma, there is wheezing, coughing and sometimes slight fever.

Cases Studied

In almost 150 case histories of asthma patients studied by Doctor Emanuel Schwartz of Brooklyn, wheezing and shortness of breath were the outstanding symptoms. Cough was next in importance and was not absent in any of the patients. As the attacks continued, the cough became worse. The patients found it difficult to bring up sputum. As the attack subsided the cough became looser and expectoration less difficult.

Even after the wheezing and shortness of breath stopped the cough continued for several days. In almost one-sixth of the patients running of the nose and sneezing preceded the onset of the asthmatic attack. In these instances the patients were suffering from nasal allergy or oversensitivity.

Cause Unknown

The exact cause of asthma is not definitely known. It is true that many of the patients with this disorder are oversensitive to various substances, such as pollen from plants or dusts, with which they come in contact. Others are sensitive to foods or the poisons formed by germs.

It is as a rule not difficult to make a diagnosis of asthma. The symptoms are so outstanding that it is difficult to confuse it with other conditions. In asthma it is found that the kind of white cells in the blood known as eosinophils are increased in number from 1 per cent. to as high as 5 per cent. to 10 per cent. or more.

Sensitivity Treatment

In the type of asthma due to sensitivity, treatment is usually more satisfactory than in those cases in which no such sensitivity can be found. At best the treatment at the present time consists in the main of those measures which may serve to ward off attacks or relieve them when they occur.

To determine whether or not the person is sensitive to various substances, skin tests may be made. These are carried out by injection of extracts from these various substances into the skin and noting whether a reaction occurs in the form of a red swelling at the point where the injection is given.

A method used for finding foods to which a person is sensitive is the use of elimination diets. These consist of diets made up of different classes of food, such as cereals, meats, etc. The patient tries one class of foods and then if no attacks of asthma occur, he adds other foods until an attack does develop. Then he will know that such foods as he added to the diet may be responsible. Of course, once the offending foods are found they should be eliminated from the diet.

Such drugs as epinephrine and ephedrine as well as aminophylline are used in treating asthmatic seizures but, of course, all such treatment must be carried out under the directions of a physician. The physician can do much to make the asthma patient comfortable and anyone with this disorder should be under the care of a doctor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

I. A. R.—I have heard that it is not advisable to eat starchy foods together with meat and fruits. Is this correct?

Answer:—I know of no evidence that the eating of starchy foods with other foods is in any way harmful. You need not be concerned about this matter.

A. H. W.—Will you please tell me something about enlargement of the prostate gland?

Answer:—Prostate gland trouble often starts as a result of an infection of the gland. Enlargement of the gland occurs in advancing age. Various forms of treatment are used. A permanent cure is usually brought about by means of an operation. A genitourinary specialist should be consulted concerning the condition.

E. S.—Is there any special diet for an enlarged heart?

Answer:—There is no particular diet other than the usual well-balanced one, which is useful for persons with an enlarged heart. Overeating should be avoided. It is better to eat four or five small meals a day than three large ones.

Next day an official notice appeared, reading something like this: "No women, not wearing skirts, will be admitted to the officers' club. Lipstick and powder is also regarded as desirable on our feminine guests. We have waited long enough to see a few women. Now they are here we want them to look like women!"

SOME DAY, NOT TOO FAR OFF, the now humiliated Germany will be sending an ambassadorial staff to Washington. Will its first representation here be like its first post-war representation after its first humiliation at the end of the first World War?

I remember the German ambassador who came across the ocean on the heels of the Versailles Treaty. He was a meek, inconspicuous little man and his name was Wiedefeld. He had a big, plain wife who made no effort to learn American social graces. I used to see Frau Wiedefeld doing her own marketing. She always carried a large basket over her arm, sniffed the meat to see if it was fresh and kept a keen eye on the butcher scales.

Looking back on the Wiedefelds, I realize that they were a clever choice of the German Foreign Office. They were so uninteresting, so typically middle-class that you almost felt sorry for them. You found yourself saying: "These dull, simple souls must be good. Maybe they are the real Germany. It was the work of the evil German military."

After the Wiedefelds, when the hatred against Germany was dying a little, more vivid personalities represented the Vaterland on the Potomac. A baron and a count, with exotic wives. A gentle, old professor—this was Dr. Luther. And, finally, in the years before the war, the handsomest, most skillful group of diplomats any Washington embassy or legation had.

But the handsome, skillful group overdid their job here. Most of them are probably finished off in the war. I wonder what type of diplomat the new German government, if ever there is a new German government, will consider useful in Washington. Probably some poverty-stricken looking old gentlemen in bifocal glasses and frayed black alpaca, plus a wife who is deaf and dumb.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

TERRY LEFT the peon's cottage shortly and came out into the night. It seemed a sudden relief to be away from the confines of the four tight walls, to look up into the boundless dome of a blue-black sky and breathe the sharp night air. Myriads of stars shone so brightly they threw a sheer mantle of silver over the earth, edging the buildings, touching the shimmering leaves of the poplars and eucalyptus. She breathed deeply as she walked, as if by physical effort she could right the chaotic spinning of her thoughts.

She had listened to one of the organizers of the peon league! She had acted instinctively. Now she had time to stop for reaction. Why under heaven, she thought, hadn't she burst in and confronted him? What subconscious caution had held her back? Perhaps it would have done more harm than good. Anyway, she had heard his voice—and it was not a peon voice. Of that she was sure. He was a porteno from Buenos Aires, not a criollo. Brooks would be happy to know this. His own workers were not deluged, then. They were being frightened by threats—threats to their children—into paying this tribute money.

The stupidity of the man, accusing Brooks Kimberly of mistreating his workers! Jim's stories of Brooks came back to her mind with stinging sharpness and clarity. Her concern years before about his soap box, communistic speeches on the commons at Oxford. The year his rugby team even refused to wear their school letters because they said it made for class distinction! The nagging worry of Brooks' father that his son would not forget these radical notions when his school days were over.

Before her suddenly loomed a great, black mass of shadow that cut the horizon. The observatory. The sight of it stopped her hurrying steps. Brooks was in his study tonight working on his speech. He had asked not to be disturbed. There would be no use breaking in on him anyway, now that the organizer had escaped. Why not stop now and make some notes of the scene at the peon's house while she could still feel the emotional drama of it?

She crossed the clearing inside the dense circle of trees that surrounded the building. Fumbling in the darkness, she slid a hand over the rough hewn stones until she felt the smoothness of the wooden door, the cold, iron latch. The door creaked protestingly on its rusty hinges as she slowly pulled it open. Inside it was dark as a pocket. She felt her way cautiously up the winding stone steps. On the landing she reached for the latch of the tower room door when she hesitated—instinctively aware of a presence near her. Whirling, she could see nothing at first, then against the further wall she caught the glow of a cigarette! As she waited breathlessly, a man's form moved forward along the rail of the circular balcony, silhouetted against the sky.

"Terry, is that you?" It was Brooks' reassuring voice. Terry let out a sigh of relief. "Yes," she gasped softly. "You frightened me." "I'm sorry. I saw you coming across the path down below. It looked like you, yet I couldn't imagine you'd be coming here this time of night."

Terry thought while the darkness hid a guilty grin. "You'd have imagined all right if I'd gotten here first and had gone to work. A narrow escape!" But aloud she murmured casually, "I was taking a walk, and it's such a beautiful night. I thought the view from here might be interesting."

He lit her a cigarette and made a place for her at the rail. "I didn't know anyone else ever came here since father died," he said in a low voice. "He loved this old place so. Maybe that's part of the attraction it has for me. Whenever I have things to think through I always come here." "That's strange," Terry said impulsively. "This place affects me the same way."

"You come here often?" She hesitated a moment. "Not often. But I have been down here a few times." She laughed a little jerkily. It always made her nervous to lie. Then she added sincerely, "There's something about it. Maybe it's just the immensity of the universe from here that makes our own little troubles seem infinitesimal."

Brooks moved a little closer. Close enough so that she could feel the brush of his arm against hers. In the stillness she wondered if he could hear the pounding of her heart. She was glad for the darkness. She knew that her face must be crimson with excitement. Desperately she was trying to build up that barrier in her heart—to crowd him out of her mind, but when she stood close to him like this something inside of her invariably happened. It was as if the pressure had suddenly become too much, a dam had broken and let a flood of emotion sweep over her, engulf her. She tried to quiet her heart, but it was no use.

In the thin light she could see the strength of his features, feel a magnetism that seemed to flow from his very being. She had a feeling that any moment she might be literally pulled, even against her own strength, into his arms. As much as she really wanted that, yet she didn't want it—she couldn't want it. In her mind she said over and over again—he belongs to Corinne, to Corinne.

Brooks was glancing at the luminous dial of his wrist watch. "I suppose I should be getting back to my room," he said.

Only then did Terry's mind go into action. She had been on her way to the house to talk to him until she, too, had thought of that paper! She told him quickly of her trip to Bartolome's house and of the organizer she had overheard.

He was excited. He almost echoed her own reactions. If she had only seen the man! But then she might have endangered both herself and the peons by going in.

"I'd know his voice anywhere if I heard it again," he said. "A peculiar harsh, clipped way he spoke." He was relieved, too, that it seemed now definitely an outside organization, not one springing from his workers.

At last he snapped his cigarette in a red spinning arc to the ground. "We must be getting back."

Terry, about to start, abruptly remembered the look of concern on Jim's face the night she and Brooks had come in together from Pedro's. She laughed. "You go ahead. I'll come later."

"Nonsense," Brooks argued. "We were both taking walks and happened to meet." But she was firm. She waited there, hearing his steps descending the stone stairs, the squeaking of the rusty hinge below as the heavy door opened and then closed. She stood a long time, her face turned toward the west looking out over the dark endless pampas and the star-flecked sky. Her heart was all d with pain and yet with it all the buoyancy of a few moments so close to Brooks Kimberly lingered like a pleasant dream.

LEAD FROM HONOR RISKY

AGAINST a trump contract, it is always somewhat risky to undress an honor in a side suit. If all your side suits are topped by single or non-touching honors, and you have only small cards in the trump suit, a trump lead may be preferable. Against a No Trump, whatever trick you may lose by underleading an honor may be more than regained by setting up several low-card tricks. But that does not apply to suit contracts.

GOP Roosevelt Detractors Rayburn Popularity Aiding
Overlook Truman's Control Succession Change Proposal

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The Republicans have still "got such a mad on" against Franklin D. Roosevelt that they are failing to notice what is happening to themselves meanwhile. They are so intent fighting the memory of the late president they are overlooking the fact that Mr. Truman is running everything—almost everything—his own way.

Even Herbert Hoover, one of the last administration's sharpest enemies, is relaxing his fight against the Democratic party and speaking publicly and privately in praise of the party's leader, President Harry S. Truman.

If this rush to the Truman banner continues, I'll not be surprised to find Governor Tom Dewey inscribing sonnets "To H. S. T."

THE PRESENCE OF SAM RAYBURN in the speaker's chair of the House of Representatives gives much popular appeal to Mr. Truman's request that the present presidential succession law be amended so that the speaker succeed the vice president to the White House in the case of death, disability or removal from office.

Mr. Sam of Texas is one of the most delightful fellows in official Washington life. There must be some people who don't like Mr. Sam. But I've never met any of them. Not a dramatic figure, not a back-slapper, nor an orator—is Mr. Sam. Just a sound American who knows what he is about and can be counted on by friends and opposition to do what he has said he would do.

BETTER DEMOCRACY

It's a startling fact that prominent Americans sometimes engage in belittling the public officials who are the deliberate choice of the electorate.

Recently Dr. Alvin Johnson, retiring head of the New School of Social Research in New York City, and presumably a man of high social purpose, told an interviewer: "Nobody elects to appear stupid unless he means to run for public office." The implication is that running for office is a stupid business, in which no man can afford to appear intelligent.

Dr. Johnson undoubtedly did not mean the full inference that might be drawn from his remark. One elected representative usually will rank well with the electorate which puts them in office. But if they don't, no one is to be blamed but the voter. If citizens fail to vote, or to take pains with their voting, they can expect poor results.

The reform of free government lies in better democracy, not in substitutes. We have recently learned that lesson over again the hard way from a new crop of dictators. It should bear fruit, not in belittling the officials elected, but in a sacred dedication to the choice of leaders whom all can respect.

OTHERS ALSO TO BLAME

BIG industry has been getting some blame which at the very least it should share with others.

In France, says Antonin Basch, formerly a Czech banker and industrialist, now on the Columbia University faculty, the Socialists no less than the conservatives backed the Munich policy of appeasing Hitler. Also, he adds: "In countries like Greece or Yugoslavia, where the country was run entirely by politicians and the influence of business was slight, business leaders are now blamed for conspiring with the fascists."

It is a good idea to take Al Smith's oft-repeated advice and "look at the record."

TRAVEL TROUBLE

As if train travel weren't difficult enough already, a small town newspaper in Ontario reports wild life interference. Deer frisking around the tracks have made more than one engineer slow his pace and fall behind schedule, and on another line romping mice frequently upset the composure of the passengers.

Well, such carefree creatures probably can't be expected to know there's a war on.

War is mostly an expensive business, but Marine Corporal Edward P. Walton is reported as killing Japs at the moderate rate of 16.8 cents per head.

The latest is that Hitler has escaped disguised as a woman. That should narrow the search, for Adolf is no pin-up type.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 2—Two senators were talking over the San Francisco peace formula.

One wondered what steps the administration would take to sell it to the people, observing that if Mr. Roosevelt were alive there would no doubt be a great pressure propaganda drive organized to herald the document as the greatest advancement of man since the ten commandments—and perhaps even greater.

The second senator correctly concluded that Messrs. Truman and Stettinius are modestly putting forward their program, laying no great claims for it, and allowing it to speak for itself.

Indeed, the inner congressional sentiment seems generally to run to the theory that while this formula certainly does not guarantee either peace or security, no alternative improvement is possible now. Thus, the majority opinion concludes the document might as well be ratified to see what Mr. Stettinius and the other world organization leaders can work out of it.

The San Francisco conference did not materially alter the Dumbarton Oaks scheme. Its main work was the building up of the economic and social council and adoption of the trusteeship system. Basically the peace-keeping project was left without change, to wit:

The security council, backed by the chiefs of staff of the five big United Nations, will not have an international police force. To stop an aggressor, it will order nations to take military measures.

The council itself may take economic steps to isolate an offender, but the big five nations specifically retain the right to veto any action and an objection by any one of them can break down the whole peace formula.

This veto right was retained at San Francisco over the protest of small nations, because the big three (Russia, Britain and the United States) have the only formidable sea, air and land forces and they did not want the other eight smaller nations on the council ordering their armies around.

This formula, then, is purely tentative, and how much it will amount to remains for future events to determine. Surely it should stop little wars, but it does not even pretend anything more than hope for avoiding big ones.

Indeed, it recognizes realistically the facts of international life and is far away from the fancy projects advanced earlier in the war by some officials of this government to promote "one world," a quart-of-milk-a-day, etc.

The idealism of the document is centered largely in the economic and social council, but even there, restraint is noticeable. The charter gives this council the obligation of promoting "human rights and fundamental freedoms for, and without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion."

It does not mention freedom of press, which certainly is a fundamental freedom. Of what good is freedom of language without freedom to use it? It seems a full pledge for our constitutional liberties was avoided, possibly for fear of embarrassing contrasts with the Russian system of political use of its press under dictatorship.

The Navy seems to have caused Mr. Stettinius to moderate his trusteeship notions to some vague extent not clear in the text. It appears a special category for bases in "strategic areas" has been created, but

Ways of Treating Asthmatic Seizures

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ASTHMA is one of those chronic or long-continued disorders for which no cure has as yet been found. It is a most troublesome disease and may even be directly responsible for fatalities.

The outstanding symptom of this disease is shortness of breath, scientifically called dyspnea. During an attack of asthma, there is wheezing, coughing and sometimes slight fever.

Cases Studied

In almost 150 case histories of asthma patients studied by Doctor Emanuel Schmitt of Brooklyn, wheezing and shortness of breath were the outstanding symptoms. Cough was next in importance and was not absent in any of the patients. As the attacks continued, the cough became worse. The patients found it difficult to bring up sputum. "That's strange," Terry said impulsively. "This place affects me the same way."

"You come here often?"

She hesitated a moment. "Not often. But I have been down here a few times." She laughed a little jerkily. It always made her nervous to lie. Then she added sincerely, "There's something about it. Maybe it's just the immensity of the universe from here that makes our own little troubles seem infinitesimal."

Brooks moved a little closer. Close enough so that she could feel the brush of his arm against hers. In the stillness she wondered if he could hear the pounding of her heart. She was glad for the darkness. She knew that her face must be crimson with excitement. Desperately she was trying to build up that barrier in her heart—to crowd him out of her mind, but when she stood close to him like this something inside of her invariably happened. It was as if the pressure had suddenly become too much, a dam had broken and let a flood of emotion sweep over her, engulf her. She tried to quiet her heart, but it was no use.

In the thin light she could see the strength of his features, feel a magnetism that seemed to flow from his very being. She had a feeling that any moment she might be literally pulled, even against her own strength, into his arms. As much as she really wanted that, yet she didn't want it—she couldn't want it. In her mind she said over and over again—she belongs to Corinne, to Corinne.

Brooks was glancing at the luminous dial of his wrist watch. "I suppose I should be getting back to my paper," he said.

Only then did Terry's mind go into action. She had been on her way to the house to talk to him until she, too, had thought of that paper!

She told him quickly of her trip to Bartolme's house and of the organizer she had overheard.

He was excited. He almost echoed her own reactions. If she had only seen the man! But then she might have endangered both herself and the peons by going in.

"I'd know his voice anywhere if I heard it again," she said. "A peculiar harsh, clipped way he spoke."

He was relieved, too, that it seemed now definitely an outside organization, not one springing from his workers.

At last he snapped his cigarette in a red spinning arc to the ground. "We must be getting back."

Terry, about to start, abruptly remembered the look of concern on Jim's face the night she and Brooks had come in together from Pedro's. She laughed. "You go ahead. I'll come later."

"Nonsense," Brooks argued. "We were both taking walks and happened to meet."

But she was firm. She waited there, hearing his steps descending the stone stairs, the squeaking of the rusty hinge below as the heavy door opened and then closed. She stood a long time, her face turned toward the west looking out over the dark endless pampas and the star-strewn sky. Her heart was full with pain and yet with all the buoyancy of a few moments so close to Brooks Kimberly lingered like a pleasant dream.

YOUR STAKE IN WORLD AFFAIRS

Question: What is the Charter of the United Nations?

Answer: The Charter is actually the constitution of the world organization worked out at San Francisco. It sets down the powers and functions of the various bodies of the United Nations Organization, just as our Constitution does for our own government. The Charter must be ratified by the various governments before the world organization comes into being.

Question: Does the General Assembly have power to enact laws which will be binding on the government?

Answer: No. The General Assembly can adopt recommendations which will be submitted to the member governments for their action. The General Assembly does not have legislative power of its own as our Congress has.

Question: What happens if a nation attacks another state in violation of the Charter?

Answer: Everything will be done to settle disputes peacefully, but if this fails the Security Council can take economic or military measures to stop or prevent a war. The Security Council will have armed forces at its call.

Question: Who will supply the police forces of the United Nations?

Answer: The member governments for their action. The General Assembly

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD FROM HONOR RISKY
AGAINST a trump contract, it is always somewhat risky to underlead any honor in a side suit.

If all your side suits are topped by single or non-touching honors, and you have only small cards in the trump suit, a trump lead may be preferable. Against a No Trump, whatever trick you may lose by underleading an honor may be more than regained by setting up several low-card tricks. But that does not apply to suit contracts.

South made the same lead he would have chosen against a No Trump contract. His club J. Thereby he spilled the beans and made East's path easy. The Q won that, seven diamond tricks followed, and then East's two aces to give him a game which was never dealt to him.

In the post-mortem, South pleaded that, unable to lead a spade to his partner's bid, he could do nothing but lead from an honor in either hearts or clubs. Also that a heart lead also would have presented a trick to East, the crucial one.

"What's the matter with a trump lead, then?" asked North. "I didn't want to put some trump honor of yours under the hammer by leading through it," answered South.

The point is that a trump lead might or might not jeopardize a defense honor, whereas a heart or club lead was sure to.

Inside WASHINGTON

GOP Roosevelt Defectors | Royburn Popularity Aiding
Overlook Truman's Control | Succession Change Proposal

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Correspondent

● WASHINGTON—The Republicans have still "got such a mad on" against Franklin D. Roosevelt that they are failing to notice what is happening to themselves meanwhile. They are so intent fighting the memory of the late president they are overlooking the fact that Mr. Truman is running everything—almost everything—his own way.

Even Herbert Hoover, one of the last administration's sharpest enemies, is relaxing his fight against the Democratic party and speaking publicly and privately in praise of the party's leader, President Harry S. Truman.

If this rush to the Truman banner continues, I'll not be surprised to find Governor Tom Dewey inscribing sonnets "To H. S. T."

● THE PRESENCE OF SAM RAYBURN in the speaker's chair of the House of Representatives gives much popular appeal to Mr. Truman's request that the present presidential succession law be amended so that the speaker succeed the vice president to the White House in the case of death, disability or removal from office.

Mr. Sam of Texas is one of the most delightful fellows in official Washington life. There must be some people who don't like Mr. Sam. But I've never met any of them. Not a dramatic figure, not a back-slapper, nor an orator—is Mr. Sam. Just a sound American who knows what he is about and can be counted on by friends and opposition to do what he has said he would do.

● LOVE THE STORY of the grief of part of the United States Army when some newly arrived Wacs and Red Cross workers appeared in the officers' cino in a far-away island in fatigue uniforms, slacks and shirts, and no lipstick. The girls had been busy getting settled in their new quarters and hadn't had time to change.

Next day an official notice appeared, reading something like this: "No women, not wearing skirts, will be admitted to the officers' club. Lipstick and powder is also regarded as desirable on our feminine guests. We have waited long enough to see a few women. Now they are here we want them to look like women!"

● SOME DAY, NOT TOO FAR OFF, the now humiliated Germany will be sending an ambassadorial staff to Washington. Will its first representation here be like its first post-war representation after its first humiliation at the end of the first World War?

I remember the German ambassador who came across the ocean on the heels of the Versailles Treaty. He was a meek, inconspicuous little man and his name was Wiedefeld. He had a big, plain wife who made no effort to learn American social graces. I used to see Frau Wiedefeld doing her own marketing. She always carried a large basket over her arm, sniffed the meat to see if it was fresh and kept a keen eye on the butcher scales.

Looking back on the Wiedefelds, I realize that

Miss Roselyn Dreisbach Weds Hobert O. White

Formal Ceremony Is Performed In California

A floor length gown of ivory faille, was selected by Miss Roselyn Dreisbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Dreisbach, Circleville, Route 1, for her marriage to Hobert O. White, United States Marine Corps Reserve.

The Rev. Thomas I. Nalbach, of the First Presbyterian church, Van Nuys, Calif., performed the ceremony June 23, 7:30 p. m. at the Wee Kirk O' the Heather in Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, California.

Preceding the ceremony the selections, "I Love You Truly," "Ave Marie," and "Always," were played.

A white cascade of gladiolus blooms clustered about an orchid, formed the bouquet for the bride. Her gown was made with an insert of chiffon at the round neckline, embroidered with seed pearls. Three-quarter length sleeves, a fitted bodice with self covered buttons down the back and a gathered skirt carried out the design. She wore a garland of flowers, to match her bouquet, in her hair. The gold locket and charm bracelet, were gifts of the bridegroom.

Miss Dorothy McLaughlin, United States Marine Corps, Women's Reserve, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, served as attendant for the bride. Her floor length gown was of powder blue net made with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and flowing skirt. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow gladiolus and wore a garland of the same flowers in her hair.

The bridegroom, who wore his dress uniform, was attended by Clifford Sudkamp, United States Marine Corps Reserve, of Peoria, Ill.

A dinner, following the ceremony was given at the Biltmore Bowl, Los Angeles, Calif., after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Riverside, Calif.

The bride, who is a member of the United States Marine Corps, Women's Reserve was graduated from Pickaway high school and attended Miami university.

The bridegroom, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. White, Fresno, California, Route 1, and was graduated from Washington Union high school, Fresno, Calif. He has just completed 22 months duty in the Southwest Pacific.

NELSON WINS 7TH STRAIGHT GOLF TOURNEY

CHICAGO, July 2—John Byron Nelson, a former railroad auditor, today ruled golf with the same sweeping success by which Bobby Jones dominated the game in 1930, the year he completed his immortal grand slam.

Not since "Emperor" Jones and his famed putter, "Calamity Jane" captured the British and American open and amateur championships more than two decades ago has any golfer taken such a stranglehold on the game as Nelson, the tall, powerful Texan with the ice on file in the office of the Board of Education of said Township. These are for public inspection; and a Public Hearing on said Budget will be held at the Salicreek School Building in said Township on Tuesday the 12 day of July, 1945, at 8 o'clock P. M.

C. D. Rector, Clerk, Board of Education

NOTICE

Frances Kuhn, whose residence is unknown and with diligence cannot be ascertained, will take notice that James Kuhn on the 30th day of June, 1945, filed a certain Petition in the Common Pleas Court, Pickaway County, Ohio, being cause No. 19244 in said Court, praying for divorce and other relief.

Defendant is required to answer on or before August 13, 1945, or judgment will be taken against her.

James Kuhn, Plaintiff

His Attorney

Leafy C. Williams, 514 Jones Street, Sioux City, Iowa, is hereby notified that the State of Wyoming has filed his petition for divorce against her, in Case No. 19247, of the Common Pleas Court in the State of Wyoming, and that said cause will be for hearing on or after August 6, 1945.

LEGAL NOTICE

PROBATE COURT, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO

No. 14379

Frank E. Wilson, Administrator of the estate of James M. Moorehead, deceased.

vs. Plaintiff

Lewis Friend, Administrator of the estate of Leannah Moorehead, et al.

Defendants

Kenneth Wilson who resides at Fort in the State of Kentucky, Ray E. Moorehead and Mrs. Ray E. Moorehead who reside at 816 Grand in Laramie, Wyoming, May I, Moorehead Dessert and Joseph Dessert who reside at 219 Bolinger St. in Mexico in the State of Missouri, and Moorehead whose place of residence is unknown, and any and all unknown heirs at law and next of kin of James M. Moorehead, deceased, and any of the defendants in the above entitled cause or of any of the aforesaid unknown heirs of said James M. Moorehead, will take notice that Frank E. Wilson, Administrator of the estate of James M. Moorehead, deceased, on the 26 day of May, 1945, filed his petition in the Probate Court within and for the County of Pickaway, Ohio, and State of Ohio, alleging that the personal estate of said decedent is insufficient to pay his debts and the charges of administering his estate; that he died seized in fee simple of and undivided one half interest together with right of inheritance of another undivided one fourth interest in fee simple of the following described real estate in said county, to-wit:

Being a part of out lot No. 6 and being in range 21, township No. 11, Section 19 and consisting of 14 1/2 acres of land more or less, the same being on the North side of a 30 foot alley which extends from North Court Street in the city of Circleville, Ohio, west to the Norfolk and Western Railroad said alley being known as Rosewood Avenue.

Being the same premises conveyed to James Moorehead and Leannah Moorehead, by Myrtle Root by deed dated November 27, 1937 and recorded in Pickaway County, Ohio deed records volume 123 at page 512.

and that said decedent left no wife surviving him.

The prayer of said petition is for a sale of said premises (together with the interest of Leannah Moorehead deceased therein) for the payment of the debts and charges aforesaid.

The persons first above mentioned will further take notice that they have been made parties defendant to said petition and that they are required to answer the same on or before the 10 day of July, A. D. 1945.

nerves and mechanical swing.

Now a Toledo, O., umbrella salesman, Nelson has won every major tournament in America with the exception of the Los Angeles open—and he has captured most of them going away.

He won his first Victory National Open, the wartime substitute for the National Open, yesterday with a 72-hole total of 275 strokes, 13 under par and seven better than his foremost rival, defending champion Harold (Jug) McSpaden. The Sanford, Me., veteran tied for second with Ky Laffoon, Chicago, at 282 strokes.

In picking up first prize, $2,000 in War Bonds, Nelson set an all-time record of winning seven straight individual tournaments and boosted his winnings to another all-time high. He established a "money" record last year with $47,500 in War Bonds and he is adding on to it this year, having won 10 out of 15 major meets for more than $27,000.

LOSES 6-3 TO OHIO PEN TEAM

Circle City softballers lost one game and were rained out during another in weekend activity.

The Dairymen lost 6-3 at Ohio Penitentiary Sunday after holding an early lead. A four-run uprising ended Circle City hopes for a victory.

Saturday night at Ted Lewis park rain stopped in the third inning the game between Circle City and Curtiss-Wright All Stars. The visitors were leading 3-0.

In a preliminary game Curtiss-Wright Junior Order defeated Stansbury-Stout 8-2.

Monday's rain threatened to wash out the Night softball league game scheduled for tonight. Williamsport and Jaycees probably will be forced to play at a later date.

SEASON TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS, July 2 — With Summer practice now under way for a squad of 116, Ohio State University announces the opening of season ticket sales for 1945 football games, to continue through August 25.

The Buckeyes will open away from home for the first time since 1892, meeting Iowa Pre-Flight at Iowa City on September 22. Remaining games, at home unless otherwise indicated, are:

September 29, Missouri; October 6, Iowa; October 13, Wisconsin; October 20, Purdue; October 27, Minnesota; November 3, Northwestern (Dad's Day); November 10, Pittsburgh; November 17, Illinois (Homecoming); November 24, Michigan; there.

RED BIRDS TO HOLD TRY-OUT CAMP JULY 16

The annual try-out camp of the Columbus Red Birds will be held at Red Bird Stadium in Columbus, on July 16 and 17 it was announced today. The camp will be open to boys 16 years of age or over, who are not members of American Legion clubs. Eligible Legion players cannot be invited to the try-out camp.

The camp will be under the direction of Walter Shannon of the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals' scouting staff. He will be assisted by several other Cardinal scouts.

Boys are requested to bring their own uniforms, shoes and gloves. Registration will be held at 9:00 a. m. on Monday, July 16.

Each year several young players start their careers in organized baseball from the Columbus camp, and boys who qualify will be signed to a contract with some club of the St. Louis Cardinal system. Ken Burkhardt, former Columbus pitcher and present St. Louis Cardinal ace, made his entry into professional baseball through the Columbus try-out camp. Vernon Rider, Red Bird outfielder, also received his start in the Columbus camp.

Any inquiries regarding the camp may be addressed to Red Bird Stadium, Columbus, Ohio.

INDIANS KEEP LEAD; BIRDS, HENS IN SPLIT

By United Press

Indianapolis retained its slim lead in the American Association pennant race today after splitting a double header with the third place Louisville Colonels.

The Indians defeated Louisville, 10 to 6, in the second game of a doubleheader after losing the opener, 5 to 2, before more than 10,000 fans.

At Milwaukee, last year's champion Brewers defeated last-place Kansas City in both games of a double bill. Don Hendrickson pitched the Brewers to a narrow 2 to 1 win in the first for his fourth straight victory, and Floyd Speer held the Blues scoreless in the second.

Columbus and Toledo split a pair, Columbus winning the opener, 9 to 3, and the Mud Hens rallying to take the nightcap by a 2 to 1 score. In the second game, Columbus could make 11 hits count for only two runs and lost in the second half of the tenth inning when Toledo scored.

Minneapolis ran its winning streak to 11 straight games yesterday by winning both games of a doubleheader with its twin city, St. Paul. The Millers journeyed across the river to defeat the Saints 2 to 1 and 7 to 4. The second game, a scheduled seven-inning contest, went to 11 innings after St. Paul drove in three runs to tie the Millers at four-all.

Today's games: St. Paul at Minneapolis, Columbus at Toledo and Indianapolis at Louisville. All are night games.

FANS WELCOME HANK GREENBERG BACK TO TIGERS

Reds Lose Two Games To Phils; Dodgers Gain, Splitting With Bucs

NEW YORK, July 2—When the big fellow walked to the plate and 47,729 Detroit fans shook the stadium with their cheers, he knew he was at "home" again—in more ways than one.

This was the life Hank Greenberg dreamed about when he gave up a $55,000 a year job with the Tigers to become a $21 a month private in Uncle Sam's army, the first major league player to enlist in World War II. Now back at "home" plate, where his spiked shoes had painted the final stride on dozens of booming homers, he was ready to resume his career after a four year "time out" for a war.

The cheers that greeted him in a reception unsurpassed at Briggs stadium yesterday were more in appreciation for what the good-looking Jewish boy from New York's Bronx had done for his country than for the homer the fans hoped he would hit. And Greenberg, who rose from private to captain before getting an honorable discharge, felt a tug at his throat, a blur in his eyes.

That first time up he didn't hit a homer, but before the game was over he rewarded the faithful by sending a whistling liner into the lower left field stands to give him a round trip ticket to "home."

It was a big day all around for Detroit. Winning two from the hapless Athletics, 9 to 5 and 5 to 3, while the Yankees dropped two to the White Sox, the Tigers now lead by three and a half games in the American. Pitcher Alton Benton also returned, working two scoreless relief innings after being out since May with a broken leg. Paul (Dizzy) Trout, with Benton's help, came out of a slump to win his eighth game. Frank Overmire outpitched Russ Christopher, the A's ace, as Greenberg sat out the second game. Rudy York also hit a first game Tiger homer. The A's now have lost 13 straight.

The Yankees lost, 11 to 4 and 6 to 5, at Chicago, the White Sox attacking Hank Borowy in a first game fifth inning rally that netted nine runs. A three-run eighth inning spurge sewed up the second. Thornton Lee and Bill Dettrich were the Chicago winners.

Dave Ferriss of the Red Sox won his first game in relief, taking over when Mike Ryba developed a sore arm in the eighth to win his 12th game, 7 to 4, after the Browns won their first game at St. Louis, 7 to 3. Ferriss was lucky to win, yielding two runs, but the Red Sox came back to score five in the ninth. The Browns came from behind to win the opener for Bob Muncie, their Sunday pitcher, who gained his fourth triumph. Gene Moore hit a second game homer for the Browns.

Lou Boudreau's two-run homer in the ninth gave the Indians a 6 to 5 win over Washington won the opener, also by a 6 to 5 score at Cleveland. Emil Leonard of Washington and Allie Reynolds of Cleveland each won their eighth game. Mel Harder, making his first start in his 18th year with Cleveland, was knocked out in the opener.

The Braves retarded the pennant-bidding Cardinals at Boston, winning, 6 to 3 and 5 to 7. Homers told the story in each game. Elmer (Butch) Nieman broke up the opener in the 10th with a three-run pinch-hit homer to give Mort Cooper a victory over his old mates after two innings of relief. Three homers by Tommy Holmes ran his consecutive game hitting streak to 28. Chuck Workman also hit a second game homer in which Joe Medwick saved the victory for Pitcher Jim Tobin with a sensational throw to the plate to cut off the tying run in the ninth.

The Dodgers ran their lead to four and a half games by sharing with the Pirates at Brooklyn, losing, 4 to 3, then winning, 4 to 2. A three-run ninth inning rally fell short in the opener which Elfin (Preacher) Roe won despite the fact that Brooklyn made 14 hits. Steady six-hit pitching by Curt Davis gave the Dodgers the second game.

Ben Chapman had one happy Sunday at least as new manager of the Phils when they upset the Reds at Philadelphia, 3 to 2 and 8 to 6. Injuries in the fifth inning of the first game felled Frank McCormick, who suffered a broken nose when hit by a thrown ball and Eddie Miller, who was spiked in the knee.

Joe Bowman lost his first game in the opener after winning five since coming to the Reds from the Red Sox. He collapsed from the heat during the game.

The Giants and Cubs split at New York. A 16-hit attack off four pitchers gave New York the opener, 7 to 4. Timely hitting by Andy Pakko and Harry Lowery gave the Cubs the second game, 4 to 3. Pakko hit a single and an inside-the-park homer to drive in two runs and Lawry drove in the other two with an eighth inning

Farmers who harvest alfalfa seed this summer will find a ready market at a good price for their crop, reports from Washington indicate. This legume seed is in big demand, half again as much as was produced last year being sought to meet urgent needs.

An increase in harvested acreage of about 16 percent over 1944, for a total of 1,113,000 acres, is the goal this year in order to reach a needed production of 100 million pounds of thresher-run seed. That would allow for a large quantity for domestic use in 1946 than during the last several years, and provide for normal alfalfa plantings plus about one million acres to replace those lost because of recent insufficient seedings. Supplies of seed for states in the northern area, particularly, are inadequate, the need there being for adapted seed that resists winter-kills.

Although primarily grown for hay, alfalfa is valued by American farmers as a rotation crop, and as an erosion-resistant cover for the soil. Alfalfa hay and pasture are vital feed sources for dairy cattle and other livestock. With the countries of Europe beginning the work of rehabilitating their farm land, considerable alfalfa seed will also be needed by them in a three-fold role.

Special assistance to farmers who harvest alfalfa seed in 1945 is available under the Agricultural Adjustment Agency program.

Pickaway County July 4 Celebration To Center At Ashville

BUSINESS STOPS IN CIRCLEVILLE FOR HOLIDAY

Post Office To Join City And County Offices In Closing Wednesday

Pickaway county's Fourth of July celebration will be centered at Ashville Wednesday. There is no planned ceremony in Circleville on the date observed as the anniversary of the declaration of independence but plans are complete for the 15th annual July 4 celebration at Ashville's community park. The affair, an attraction for thousands of Central Ohio residents, is sponsored by the Ashville Community Club for the purpose of providing citizens a safe Independence day celebration and to provide funds for civic improvements.

The Circleville post office will be closed all day as will business places over the city and county, banks, county and city offices, library and some of the industrial plants. There will be no delivery of mail in the city or county. There will be no window service at the post office. Special delivery mail in the city will be sent out.

There will be no issue of the Herald on the holiday.

Few Circleville residents will take the long trips customary a few years ago on holidays. Fireworks, remembered only by the older residents, again will be absent. Trips will be limited by restrictions on gasoline and the crowded condition of buses and railroads. If the weather is nice a few family picnics will be staged in Ted Lewis park and other nearby places.

At Ashville activities will start at 11 a. m. with a parade featuring Walnut township and Ashville high school bands, decorated cars, decorated bicycles, baby, industrial, and comic entries for which prizes will be awarded by the judges. The parade will form on Walnut street in front of the school building and will march south to Main, east to Long, north to Harrison, and east to the park.

At noon the fish and hamburger fry will be in full swing with a ton of fish and plenty of hamburgers to feed the crowd. The lunch stand will be operated by members of the Community Club with proceeds to remain in the treasury.

The afternoon program calls for two soft ball games and stunts for youngsters. At 2:00 the Ashville K. of P. team will meet the Canal Winchester K. of P. team in a grudge game which should be hard-fought between two evenly matched teams. At 4:00 the Circleville All-Stars will play the Blue Ribbon Dairy which is tied for first in the Circleville night league.

From 6:00 to 8:00 a free square dance will be held in the dance pavilion at the park with a competent caller in charge. Beginning at 8:00 round dancing will be held to the music of Tom Crawshaw's dance band of Columbus.

Rides, shows, and various concessions will be in operation all day for entertainment of the young and old.

Extra police will be on duty throughout the day to cope with traffic problems, and plenty of parking space will be available.

STRIKE STOPS PAPER DELIVERY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 2—Millions of New Yorkers were on a limited news diet today as a strike of delivery truck drivers tied up distribution of 12 major newspapers. Block-long lines rimmed the sidewalks in front of the offices of morning newspapers last night and early today. Only one paper, the New York Post, announced definite plans to suspend publication during the strike. The Wall Street Journal and the Bronx Home News did not print Saturday night, but had not announced future plans.

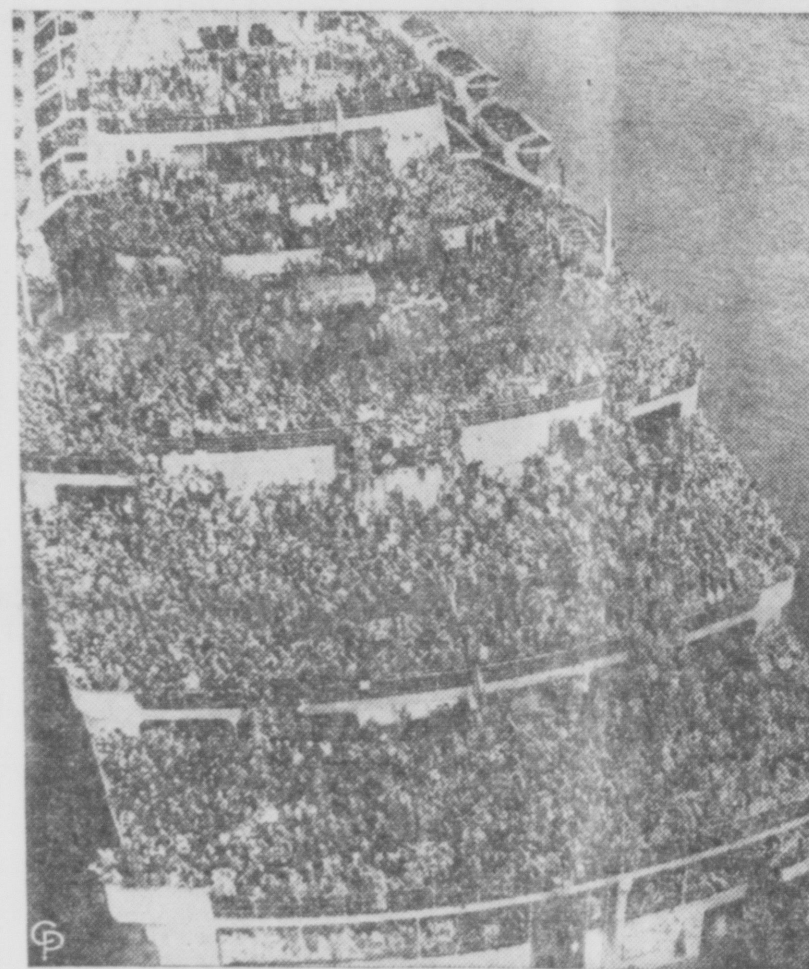

There was no indication of an early settlement of the dispute between the Independent Newspaper Mail and Deliverer's union and the Publishers Association of New York.

Post Office To Join City And County Offices In Closing Wednesday

Pickaway county's Fourth of July celebration will be centered at Ashville Wednesday.

There is no planned ceremony in Circleville on the date observed as the anniversary of the declaration of independence but plans are complete for the 15th annual July 4 celebration at Ashville's community park. The affair, an attraction for thousands of Central Ohio residents, is sponsored by the Ashville Community Club for the purpose of providing citizens a safe Independence day celebration and to provide funds for civic improvements.

The Circleville post office will be closed all day as will business places over the city and county, banks, county and city offices, library and some of the industrial plants. There will be no delivery of mail in the city or county. There will be no window service at the post office. Special delivery mail in the city will be sent out.

There will be no issue of the Herald on the holiday.

Few Circleville residents will take the long trips customary a few years ago on holidays. Fireworks, remembered only by the older residents, again will be absent. Trips will be limited by restrictions on gasoline and the crowded condition of buses and railroads. If the weather is nice a few family picnics will be staged in Ted Lewis park and other nearby places.

At Ashville activities will start at 11 a. m. with a parade featuring Walnut township and Ashville high school bands, decorated cars, decorated bicycles, baby, industrial, and comic entries for which prizes will be awarded by the judges. The parade will form on Walnut street in front of the school building and will march south to Main, east to Long, north to Harrison, and east to the park.

At noon the fish and hamburger fry will be in full swing with a ton of fish and plenty of hamburgers to feed the crowd. The lunch stand will be operated by members of the Community Club with proceeds to remain in the treasury.

The afternoon program calls for two soft ball games and stunts for youngsters. At 2:00 the Ashville K. of P. team will meet the Canal Winchester K. of P. team in a grudge game which should be hard-fought between two evenly matched teams. At 4:00 the Circleville All-Stars will play "The Blue Ribbon Dairy" which is tied for first in the Circleville night league.

From 6:00 to 8:00 a free square dance will be held in the dance pavilion at the park with a competent caller in charge. Beginning at 8:00 round dancing will be held to the music of Tom Crawshaw's dance band of Columbus. Rides, shows, and various concessions will be in operation all day for entertainment of the young and old.

Extra police will be on duty throughout the day to cope with traffic problems, and plenty of parking space will be available.

STRIKE STOPS PAPER DELIVERY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 2—Millions of New Yorkers were on a limited news diet today as a strike of delivery truck drivers tied up distribution of 12 major newspapers.

Block-long lines rimmed the sidewalks in front of the offices of morning newspapers last night and early today. Only one paper, the New York Post, announced definite plans to suspend publication during the strike. The Wall Street Journal and the Bronx Home News did not print Saturday night, but had not announced future plans.

There was no indication of an early settlement of the dispute between the Independent Newspaper Mail and Deliverer's union and the Publishers Association of New York.
